Cell Jack Challoner:

The Cell Jack Challoner, Dr Philip Dash, 2015-10-30 The microscopic cell is Earth's greatest success story and the common ancestor we share with all other organisms. Formed over three and a half billion years ago, life exploded from this minuscule powerhouse first throughout the seas and then over millions of years across the lands to create the complex living forms populating the planet today. Yet how has such a minute organism been so powerful? What has enabled it both to create and break down life on earth over billions of years? And how have cells interacted to create an extraordinary diversity of plant, aquatic, terrestrial, and avian life? Here Jack Challoner shines a spotlight on the passage of the cell through time to explore how a continual myriad of interactions and symbiotic relationships have been and continue to be the extraordinary catalyst for life.

The Cell Jack Challoner, 2015-10-16 Handsome and elegantly designed, this tour through the cell's history and diversity in form and function is a delight to peruse. Stunning American Scientist. With The Cell, Jack Challoner treats readers to a visually striking tour of these remarkable molecular machines. Most of the living things we're familiar with—the plants in our gardens, the animals we eat—are composed of billions or trillions of cells. Most multicellular organisms consist of many different types of cells, each highly specialized to play a particular role, from building bones or producing the pigment in flower petals to fighting disease or sensing environmental cues. But the great majority of living things on our planet exist as single cells. These cellular singletons are every bit as successful and diverse as multicellular organisms, and our very existence relies on them. The book is an authoritative yet accessible account of what goes on inside every living cell, from building proteins and producing energy to making identical copies of themselves and the importance of these chemical reactions both on the familiar everyday scale and on the global scale. Along the way, Challoner sheds light on many of the most intriguing questions guiding current scientific research: What special properties make stem cells so promising in the treatment of injury and disease? How and when did single-celled organisms first come together to form multicellular ones? And how might scientists soon be prepared to build on the basic principles of cell biology to build similar living cells from scratch? Small really is beautiful. Psychedelic images show the inner workings of cells in stunning detail. Daily Mail

The Cell Jack Challoner, 2015 The cell is the basic building block of life. In its 3.5 billion years on the planet, it has proven to be a powerhouse, spreading life first throughout the seas, then across land, developing the rich and complex diversity of life that populates the planet today.
