focussing on CCIs and the innovations connected with them The two main questions that this volume aims to address are How can we identify map and define CCIs in Europe And how do they contribute to innovation and sustainable growth The volume is split into two parts The first part deals with the definition measurement and mapping of the geography of European CCIs according to a local economic approach focussing on Italy Spain the UK Austria Denmark and France This section surveys the different industrial typologies and spatial patterns which underline a significant dissimilarity between the North and the South of Europe mainly due to the difference between heritage driven and technology driven countries The section concludes with a case study on a Japanese creative city The second part collects some interesting cases of innovation generated in creative spaces such as cities of art or creative clusters and networks This entails the study of innovations among creative and non creative sectors e g laser technologies in conservation of works of art and design networks in Italy and across European and non European countries e g Spaghetti Western movies in the US or visual artists in New Zealand Finally an innovation capacity of culture that can regenerate mature sectors e g the French food supply chain and Swiss watch Valley or combine the creative and green economics paradigms e g the green creative cities in North Europe is analyzed This book will appeal to academics scholars and practitioners of urban and regional studies cultural and creative economics and managerial and organization studies

Sustainable Innovation and Regional Development Leïla Kebir, Olivier Crevoisier, Pedro Costa, Véronique Peyrache-Gadeau, 2017-01-27 This book questions the way contemporary innovation processes develop and become embedded in territories It analyses recent developments in territorial systems of production networks of innovation and innovative milieus with regard to the issue of sustainable development Drawing on 12 case studies aimed at fostering sustainable development and conducted by an experienced team of international scholars a new conceptual approach to sustainable innovation is proposed More broadly it also reassesses the development models proposed in the 1980s that emerged in the context of globalization competitiveness and technological innovation

Creative Industries in Europe Caroline Chapain, Tadeusz Strykiewicz, 2017-06-08 This book demonstrates how the creative industries are driving new sectoral and spatial dynamics in European cities regions and countries and how these may be influenced by international and global dynamics It takes a purposeful geographical approach to the study of the creative industries across various Western Central and Eastern European contexts since the 2008 2009 recession Despite the growing research looking at the development of the creative industries in the last 15 years there are still gaps in the coverage of what is happening in Central and Eastern Europe compared to Western Europe This book addresses these gaps in two parts focusing on particular geographical scales and creative processes local interplay between sector and space and the role of the creative industries in regional and national economies after the crisis The book presents original analyses of the post crisis environment and novel data on topics such as the role of institutions in the regulation of the fashion industry in global cities the impact of clustering on film innovation location patterns of art galleries regional specialisations and paths of professional carriers in creative industries

Making Cultural Cities in Asia June Wang, Tim Oakes, Yang

Yang, 2015-12-22 This book examines the vast and largely uncharted world of cultural creative city making in Asia. It explores the establishment of policy models and practices against the backdrop of a globalizing world and considers the dynamic relationship between powerful actors and resources that impact Asian cities. Making Cultural Cities in Asia approaches this dynamic process through the lens of assemblage: how the policy models of cultural creative cities have been extracted from the flow of ideas and how reinvented versions have been assembled, territorialized and exported. This approach reveals a spectrum between globally circulating ideals on the one hand and the place-based contexts and contingencies on the other. At one end of the spectrum, this book features chapters on policy mobility in particular the political construction of the web of communication and the restructuring or rescaling of the state. At the other end, chapters examine the increasingly fragmented social forces, their changing roles in the process and their negotiations, alignments and resistances. This book will be of interest to researchers and policy makers concerned with cultural and urban studies, creative industries and Asian studies.

Reanimating Regions James Riding, Martin Jones, 2017-05-12 Writing regions, undertaking a regional study was once a standard form of geographic communication and critique. This was until the quantitative revolution in the middle of the previous century and more definitively the critical turn in human geography towards the end of the twentieth century. From then on, writing regions as they were experienced phenomenologically or arguing culturally, historically and politically with regions was deemed to be old-fashioned. Yet the region is and always will be a central geographical concept and thinking about regions can tell us a lot about the history of the discipline called geography. Despite taking up an identifiable place within the geographical imagination in scholarship and beyond, region remains a relatively forgotten, underused and in part undertheorised term. Reanimating Regions marks the continued reinvigoration of a set of disciplinary debates surrounding regions, the regional and regional geography. Across 18 chapters from international interdisciplinary scholars, this book writes and performs region as a temporary permanence, something held stable, not fixed and absolute at different points in time for different purposes. There is, as this expansive volume outlines, no single reading of a region. Reanimating Regions collectively rebalances the region within geography and geographical thought. In renewing the geography of regions as not only a site of investigation but also as an analytical framework through which to write the world, what emerges is a powerful reworking of the geographic imagination. Read against one another, the chapters weave together timely commentaries on region and regions across the globe with a particular emphasis upon the regional as played out in the United Kingdom and regional worlds both within and beyond Europe, offering chapters from Africa and South America. Addressing both the political and the cultural, this volume responds to the need for a consolidated and considered reflection on region, the regional and regional geography speaking directly to broader intellectual concerns with performance, aesthetics, identity, mobilities, the environment and the body.

The Social Dynamics of Innovation Networks Roel Rutten, Paul Benneworth, Dessy Irawati, Frans

Boekema,2014-06-27 The social dynamics of innovation networks captures the important role of trust social capital institutions and norms and values in the creation of knowledge in innovation networks In doing so this book connects to a long standing debate on the socio spatial context of innovation in economic geography which is usually referred to as the Territorial Models of Innovation TIMs literature This present volume breaks with the TIM literature in several important ways In the first place this book emphasizes the role of individual agency because individuals and their networks are increasingly recognized as the principal agents of knowledge creation Secondly this volume looks at space as a continuous field of opportunity rather than as bounded territory with a set of endowments such as knowledge base and social capital Although individually these elements are not new to the TIM literature it has thus far failed to grasp their critical implication for studying the social dynamics of innovation networks The approach to the socio spatial context of innovation in this volume is summarized as Knowledge Economy 2 0 It emphasizes that human creativity is now the main source of economic value and that human creativity and knowledge creation is not an organized process within organizations but happens bottom up in formal and informal professional and social networks of individuals that cut across multiple organizations

Socio-Economic Segregation in European Capital Cities Tiit Tammaru,Szymon Marcińczak,Maarten van Ham,Sako Musterd,2015-07-24 Growing inequalities in Europe are a major challenge threatening the sustainability of urban communities and the competitiveness of European cities While the levels of socio economic segregation in European cities are still modest compared to some parts of the world the poor are increasingly concentrating spatially within capital cities across Europe An overlooked area of research this book offers a systematic and representative account of the spatial dimension of rising inequalities in Europe This book provides rigorous comparative evidence on socio economic segregation from 13 European cities Cities include Amsterdam Athens Budapest London Milan Madrid Oslo Prague Riga Stockholm Tallinn Vienna and Vilnius Comparing 2001 and 2011 this multi factor approach links segregation to four underlying universal structural factors social inequalities global city status welfare regimes and housing systems Hypothetical segregation levels derived from those factors are compared to actual segregation levels in all cities Each chapter provides an in depth and context sensitive discussion of the unique features shaping inequalities and segregation in the case study cities The main conclusion of the book is that the spatial gap between the poor and the rich is widening in capital cities across Europe which threatens to harm the social stability of European cities This book will be a key reference on increasing segregation and will provide valuable insights to students researchers and policy makers who are interested in the spatial dimension of social inequality in European cities Chapters 1 and 15 of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 3 0 license

Place-based Economic Development and the New EU Cohesion Policy Philip McCann,Attila Varga,2018-02-02 The new EU Cohesion Policy is one of the largest integrated development policies in the Western world and one of the largest of such programmes anywhere in the world The reforms to the EU Cohesion Policy contain many different elements each of which interlink in order to provide a cohesive overall framework Some of the key elements in the reforms however relate to the conditionalities employed and their effects on policy governance and the control mechanism the smart specialization approach to policy prioritization and resource allocation the underlying place based logic of the policy and the overall results orientation and evaluation emphasis of the policy In each of the areas of the EU Cohesion Policy reforms many different scholars from the fields of regional studies regional science and economic geography have played important roles in shaping the new policy and the chapters here highlight these increasing interactions between the policy and academic spheres of debate The collection of essays in this book each deal with specific aspects of these critical elements of the Cohesion Policy reforms In particular they examine some of the strengths and weaknesses of these individual elements and allowing for a better understanding of the origins and backgrounds of many of the ideas underpinning these reforms This book was previously published as a special issue of Regional Studies

The Craft of Criticism Michael Kackman, Mary Celeste Kearney, 2018-06-22 With contributions from 30 leading media scholars this collection provides a comprehensive overview of the main methodologies of critical media studies Chapters address various methods of textual analysis as well as reception studies policy production studies and contextual multi method approaches like intertextuality and cultural geography Film and television are at the heart of the collection which also addresses emergent technologies and new research tools in such areas as software studies gaming and digital humanities Each chapter includes an intellectual history of a particular method or approach a discussion of why and how it was used to study a particular medium or media relevant examples of influential work in the area and an in depth review of a case study drawn from the author s own research Together the chapters in this collection give media critics a complete toolbox of essential critical media studies methodologies
