Comparative Anatomy And Histology Comparative Anatomy And Histology:

Comparative Anatomy and Histology Piper M. Treuting, Suzanne M. Dintzis, Kathleen S. Montine, 2017-08-29 The second edition of Comparative Anatomy and Histology is aimed at the new rodent investigator as well as medical and veterinary pathologists who need to expand their knowledge base into comparative anatomy and histology. It guides the reader through normal mouse and rat anatomy and histology using direct comparison to the human. The side by side comparison of mouse, rat, and human tissues highlights the unique biology of the rodents, which has great impact on the validation of rodent models of human disease. Offers the only comprehensive source for comparing mouse, rat, and human anatomy and histology through over 1500 full color images in one reference work. Enables human and veterinary pathologists to examine tissue samples with greater accuracy and confidence. Teaches biomedical researchers to examine the histologic changes in their model rodents. Experts from both human and veterinary fields take readers through each organ system in a side by side comparative approach to anatomy and histology. Human Netter anatomy images along with Netter style rodent images. Comparative Anatomy and Histology Piper M. Treuting, Suzanne M. Dintzis, Charles W. Frevert, Denny Liggitt, Kathleen S. The Comparative Anatomy and Histology of the Cerebellum Olof Larsell, 1970-08 The Comparative Anatomy and Histology of the Cerebellum was first published in 1970. Minnesota Archive Editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original University of Minnesota Press editions. This is the second volume of the late Dr. Larsell's comprehensive monograph on the cerebellum, the first volume of which is described below. A third volume on the human cerebellum will be published by the University of Minnesota Press next spring to complete the work. This second volume deals with the morphogenetic development and morphology of the cerebellum of all orders of mammals from monotremes through apes. The descriptions cover the cerebellum in about forty species, with special emphasis on the cerebellum of the albino rat, rabbit, cat, and rhesus monkey. Dr. Larsell's comparative anatomical studies over a period of many years led to the conclusion that fundamentally the mammalian cerebellum is composed of ten subdivisions. With few exceptions, the smallest and most primitive cerebella, the subdivisions are identified in all mammals. The descriptions of the cerebella are based on the author's personal investigations, but the relevant literature is thoroughly reviewed also.
