Shared Reading Lesson Plan

Lesson Focus: What do the focus of the lesson? What will I expect it? The focus of the lesson is the organization of a report. I will use a shared reading approach to analyze reports and model student features. Then students will work in groups to produce a written response following the features of a report before they demonstrate this skill independently on a new text.
Background: Why am I teaching this lesson? After analyzing previous assessment data (e.g., ELA), shared reading observations and reviewing the curriculum expectations, I have determined that the students are ready to learn about the features of a report and to engage their thinking using a graphic organizer.
Assessment: How will I know whether students are successful? • In groups, students will organize a written informational report into the following categories: generalization, description, summarizing comment.
Prior Knowledge: What prior knowledge do my students need in order to be successful with this lesson? How? • An understanding of the main differences between fiction and non-fiction texts.
Curriculum Expectations: Which expectations will I address? Students will: • learn systematic reading strategies • understand that different text forms require different reading skills
Materials/Preparation for Teaching: What do I need to know, have, and be able to do before I can begin this lesson? • Big Book – Technology, by David Harper, “Get a Clue” chapter 10. • Individual printouts of “Get a Clue” for shared reading. • Character graphic organizer for report categories. • Individual copies of “Get a Clue”, chapter 8. • Individual graphic organizers for independent use.
