Higgs, Michael Braswell, 2004 An Unholy Alliance offers a dissenting view to the claim by a growing number of scholars that Sports are a new religion The last few years have seen a spate of books that might be classified by a genre called Sports Apologetics that is arguments defending or celebrating in one way or another the familiar and ongoing alliance in America between sports and religion Recently claims have been made by scholars that sports are an authentic religion in and of themselves They make this startling assertion not by showing connections with the teachings of Buddha Jesus Mohammed or Moses but by parallels between the rites of modern games and those of preliterate man that were religious in nature because they were designed to propitiate powers and to ward off evil for the tribes employing them In this evocative book Higgs and Braswell suggest that while sports may often be good things they are not inherently divine They do not focus on wide spread abuse in sports as evidence for their counterargument Rather they question the use of mythological parallels from prehistory as justification for viewing sports as a religion A Contemporary History of Women's Sport, Part One Jean Williams, 2014-04-24 This book is an historical survey of women's sport from 1850 1960 It looks at some of the more recent methodological approaches to writing sports history and raises questions about how the history of women's sport has so far been shaped by academic writers Questions explored in this text include What are the fresh perspectives and newly available sources for the historian
