David Metz

Crossing The Gates Of The Arctic:

Crossing the Gates of the Arctic David Metz, 2008-05 Skiing up frozen rivers enduring frigid nights at twenty below zero and staggering over vast reaches of barren tundra and scrub woodlands David Metz trekked 600 miles across northern Alaska with his two dogs The remotest part of his journey was crossing the Gates of The Arctic National Park tucked deep in the heart of the Brooks Range On this grueling leg the threat of starvation loomed like the storms on the horizon Every day brought rivers and bogs to wade peaks to traverse and miles of nagging tussocks to hike over In the isolation and desperation to forge ahead he had to stave off panic in order to appreciate the immensity of the land As he walked he was able to rekindle his childhood amazement for the natural world and discover truths about himself and humanity about loved ones and about where he wanted to go next Even in the grip of exhaustion and despair he willed himself to stay calm and connect with wilderness again

Kenai River Crossing ,1998 Crossing The Gates of Alaska: Dave Metz, 2010-02-01 The snow forms the beginning of a near vertical chute that falls at least a thousand feet My feet shaking manage to hug the thin edge of solid rock I feel my heart creep to my throat and warm sweat drip down my back defying the subzero Arctic air Somehow I reach a plateau and think the worst is behind me I couldn't be more wrong This is the story of Dave Metz's death defying breathtaking and passionate journey through the Arctic outback Driven by his lifetime reverence for the outdoors Dave with the help of his two beloved Airedale terrier dogs embarks on a three month epic of survival and astonishing determination that rivals the most daring world class explorations I find myself on a gigantic trench hemmed in on both sides by peaks that look like ice daggers from another world The idea that I'm at the mercy of the wild sinks in and I desperately want out of this endless icebound maze Skiing up frozen rivers enduring bitter nights at twenty below zero and staggering across vast reaches of barren tundra and scrub woodlands Metz's unprecedented 600 mile trek took him to the remotest regions of the untamed North In frightening and stunning detail he shows us an unwavering spirit and a compelling sense of adventure that can only be satisfied when truly free Dave Metz has been to Alaska over a dozen times in the last twenty years He's kayaked across Alaska twice once with his beloved dog Jonny riding in the bow and lived there for two years in remote locations He's also kayaked and trekked in Peru Brazil Canada and Borneo and has hiked across most of Oregon and Washington Despite his forays away from home he managed to earn a Bachelor of Arts degree in English literature from Portland State University where he also did course work in zoology He currently works for the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife as a seasonal fish biologist In addition to studying mammals and the preservation of indigenous cultures in rain forest regions he continues zealously to embark on wilderness survival and exploration adventures cycling and hiking trips He lives Philomath Oregon
