Staying Open: Charles Olson's

Sources and Influences Joshua S. Hoeynck, 2019-05-03 Staying Open Charles Olson's Sources and Influences investigates the interdisciplinary influences on the work of the mid-Century American poet Charles Olson. This edited collection of essays covers Olson's diverse non-literary interests including his engagement with the music of John Cage and Pierre Boulez, his interests in abstract expressionism and his readings of philosopher Alfred North Whitehead. The essays also examine Olson's pedagogy which he developed in the experimental environment at Black Mountain College as well as his six-month archeological journey through the Yucatan Peninsula in 1950 to explore the culture of the Maya. This book will therefore be a strong research aid to scholars working in diverse fields: music, archeology, pedagogy, philosophy, art, and psychology, as it outlines methods for close interdisciplinary work that can uncover the mechanics of Olson's creative literary processes. Building on the straightforward scholarship of George Butterick whose Guide to the Maximus Poems remains indispensable for readers of Olson's work, the essays in this volume will also guide readers through the thick allusions within The Maximus Poems itself. New interest in the wide-ranging and non-literary nature of Olson's thought in several recent academic works makes this book both timely and necessary. Physics, Envy, American Poetry, and Science in the Cold War and After by Peter Middleton as well as Contemporary Olson edited by David Herd have started the process of uncovering the extent to which Olson's interdisciplinary interests inflected his poetic compositions. Staying Open extends the preliminary investigations of Olson's non-literary sources in those volumes by bringing together a community of scholars working across disciplines and within a wide variety of humanistic concerns.

Charles Olson's Reading Ralph Maud, 1996 In this narrative account of the life and work of Charles Olson, Ralph Maud focuses on what the poet read as a basis for understanding the work he produced. To an extraordinary degree, Olson's reading and life were coextensive, according to Maud, who notes that Olson saw his written output over his lifetime as a total cosmology. An individual who rarely traveled, this major American poet explored the world and its history as well as the furthest reaches of the thought of his day through books. Maud builds upon George Butterick's annotated listing of Olson's library, bought by the University of Connecticut after the poet's death in 1970. The present volume, however, adds categories of books Butterick deliberately omitted: Olson's childhood books and poetry by his own contemporaries. Linking Olson's books to his intellectual and poetic development at each stage of his career, Maud reveals such little-known but important connections as the contracted book project Operation Red, White, and Black and Olson's plan for the long poem West, two unrealized projects much later shaped into The Maximus Poems. Maud also outlines the surprisingly multiple role of the painter Corrado Cagli, who brought home to Olson the significance of the Holocaust and introduced him both to the Tarot and to the theories of non-Euclidean geometry that Olson variously incorporated into his poems and essays. In discussing Olson's relationship to Ezra Pound, Maud defines in some detail what Olson gained from

Pound and what he repudiated Maud refutes the notion that Olson's intellectual and creative powers declined during the last years of his life demonstrating that during these years Olson developed his Jungian interest his attention to early Greek thought and a new concern for Northern mythology This chronicle of Olson's reading from childhood to deathbed constitutes a critical biography of the larger than life author of Call Me Ishmael and The Maximus Poems No modern poet is more revealed in his sources than Olson Maud's comprehensive and complete study provides a basis for new and fresh modes of thinking about Olson's great achievement

Eyes Upside Down P. Adams Sitney, 2008-04-18 Sitney analyzes in detail the work of eleven American avant garde filmmakers as heirs to the aesthetics of exhilaration and innovative vision articulated by Ralph Waldo Emerson and explored by John Cage Charles Olson and Gertrude Stein The films discussed span the sixty years since the Second World War With three chapters each devoted to Stan Brakhage and Robert Beavers two each to Hollis Frampton and Jonas Mekas and single chapters on Marie Menken Ian Hugo Andrew Noren Warren Sonbert Su Friedrich Ernie Gehr and Abigail Child Eyes Upside Down is the fruit of Sitney's lifelong study of visionary aspirations in the American avant garde cinema

Poems Containing History Gary Grieve-Carlson, 2013-11-08 Ezra Pound's definition of an epic as a poem containing history raises questions how can a poem contain history And if it can does it help us to think about history in ways that conventional historiography cannot Poems Containing History Twentieth Century American Poetry's Engagement with the Past by Gary Grieve Carlson argues that twentieth century American poetry has contained and helped its readers to think about history in a variety of provocative and powerful ways Tracing the discussion of the relationship between poetry and history from Aristotle's Poetics to Norman Mailer's The Armies of the Night and Hayden White's Metahistory the book shows that even as history evolves into a professional academic discipline in the late nineteenth century and as its practitioners emphasize the scientific aspects of their work and minimize its literary aspects twentieth century American poets continue to take history as the subject of their major poems Sometimes they endorse the views of mainstream historians as Stephen Vincent Benét does in John Brown's Body but more often they challenge them as do Robert Penn Warren in Brother to Dragons Ezra Pound in The Cantos or Charles Olson in The Maximus Poems In Conquistador Archibald MacLeish illustrates Aristotle's claim that poetry tells more philosophical truths about the past than history does while in Paterson William Carlos Williams develops a Nietzschean suspicion of history's value Three major American poets T S Eliot in Four Quartets Hart Crane in The Bridge and Carolyn Forché in The Angel of History present different challenges to professional historiography's assumption that the past is best understood in strictly material terms Poems Containing History devotes chapters to each of these poets and offers a clear sense of the seriousness with which American poetry has engaged the past as well as the great variety of those engagements

Writing Against Expulsion in the Post War World Making Space for the Human tells a pre history of the Hostile Environment The book s starting point is the rapidly escalating use of detention as a response to human movement and the global production of geopolitical non personhood in which detention results As a matter of urgency the book argues we need to understand what is at stake in such policies and to resist the world we are making when we detain and expel Writing Against Expulsion returns to a post war period when the brutal consequences of the politics of expulsion were visible and when it was clear to writers of all kinds that space for the human had to be made Drawing on contemporary histories of forced displacement eye witness accounts international legal documents and on a range of emblematic cross disciplinary texts and authors the Universal Declaration of Human Rights the political philosophy of Hannah Arendt the poetry of Charles Olson the revolutionary theory of Frantz Fanon the book shows how mid century writers both documented the lived experience of expulsion and asserted ways of thinking and acting by which expulsion could be prevented What emerged were new languages of rights and recognition new accounts of Moving Making and Speaking through which the exclusions of nation and border could be countered
