[With Plates, Including Portraits, Illustrations and Maps.].* Jacques Gernet,1962 Daily Life in China on the Eve of the Mongol Invasion, 1250-1276

Translated from the French! by H.M.Wright Jacques Gernet,1962 Students and Teachers of the New China Madelyn Holmes,2014-11-01 In this collection of interviews with students and teachers in Hangzhou China the reader meets a student at Zhejiang university majoring in English and studying Japanese and Italian a teacher who spent his childhood as a little Red Guard of the Cultural Revolution and went on to study in England a young girl who dreams of princesses and romance and another who wants to be a backpacker when she grows up and more Ranging in age from 7 to 52 the thirteen interviewees represent a cross section of Chinese culture and experience with various levels of social status education and economic standing Their words supplemented by the author s detailed descriptions of their surroundings and daily activities offer a fresh perspective on life in present day China Supplanting Empires Kendall Stiles,2024-12-15 What happens when one empire or hegemon cedes the global stage to a rising power Supplanting Empires Power Transitions Across Human History argues that historically such power transitions tend to be relatively smooth resulting in the preservation of the status quo with respect to the global order and institutions This stems from the tendency of rising powers to be closely associated with declining powers to the point that they generally support and perpetuate the old ways of governing They maintain similar governing institutions retain ties to the former empire s allies and generally endorse the declining empire s ideology and norms The violence involved in such transitions tends to be limited and societies and economies are typically left undisturbed To test this proposition Kendall Stiles and his students undertake a systematic study of numerous power transitions across millennia of human history The implications of these findings have considerable relevance with respect to the contemporary power struggle between the United States and China China's Imperial Past Charles O. Hucker,1975 A panoramic survey of the course of Chinese civilization from prehistory to 1850 when the old China began to give way

Wind Against the Mountain Richard L. Davis,2020-10-26 Richard Davis has expertly crafted a stirring narrative of the last years of Song focusing on loyalist resistance to Mongol domination as more than just a political event Davis convincingly argues that Song martyrs were dying for more than dynasty alone martyrdom can be linked to other powerfully compelling symbols as well Seen from the perspective of the conquered the phenomenon of martyrdom reveals much about the cultural history of the Song Davis challenges the traditional view of Song martyrdom as a simple expression of political duty by examining the phenomenon instead from the perspective of material life and masculine identity He also explores the tensions between the outer court of militant radicals and an inner court run by female regents tensions that reflect the broader split between factions of Song government as well as societal conflict Davis reveals the true magnitude of the loyalist phenomenon in this beautifully written fascinating study of Song political loyalty and cultural values
