Cities and the Cultural Economy Thomas A. Hutton, 2015-08-27 The cultural economy forms a leading trajectory of urban development and has emerged as a key facet of globalizing cities. Cultural industries include new media digital arts music and film and the design industries and professions as well as allied consumption and spectacle in the city. The cultural economy now represents the third largest sector in many metropolitan cities of the West including London Berlin New York San Francisco and Melbourne and is increasingly influential in the development of East Asian cities Tokyo Shanghai Hong Kong and Singapore as well as the mega cities of the Global South e.g. Mumbai Capetown and S o Paulo. Cities and the Cultural Economy provides a critical integration of the burgeoning research and policy literatures in one of the most prominent sub fields of contemporary urban studies. Policies for cultural economy are increasingly evident within planning development and place marketing programs requiring large resource commitments but producing on the evidence highly uneven results. Accordingly the volume includes a critical review of how the new cultural economy is reshaping urban labour housing and property markets contributing to gentrification and to precarious employment formation as well as to broadly favorable outcomes such as community regeneration and urban vitality. The volume acknowledges the important growth

dynamics and sustainability of key creative industries Written primarily as a text for upper level undergraduate and Masters students in urban economic and social geography sociology cultural studies and planning this provocative and compelling text will also be of interest to those studying urban land economics architecture landscape architecture and the built environment Children, Youth and the City Kathrin Horschelmann,Lorraine van Blerk,2013-06-17 Contrasts experiences of growing up in the city Urban Spaces and Gender in Asia Divya Upadhyaya Joshi,Caroline Brassard,2020-04-29 Exploring the relationship between place and identity this book gathers 30 papers that highlight experiences from throughout the Asia Pacific region The countries profiled include China India Japan Indonesia and Thailand Readers will gain a better understanding of how urbanization is affecting gender equity in Asian Pacific cities in the 21st century The contributing authors examine the practical implications of urban development and link them with the broader perspective of urban ecology They consider how visceral experiences connect with structural and discursive spheres Further they investigate how multiple interconnected relations of power shape gender in equity in urban ecologies and address such issues as construction of Kawaii as an idealized femininity diversity among homosexuals in urban India and single women and rental housing In turn the authors present hitherto unexplored sub themes from historiography and existentialist literary perspectives and share a vast range of multi disciplinary views on issues concerning gendered dispossession due to the impact of urban policy and governance The topics covered include socio spatial and ethnic segregation in urban spaces intersections of gender race ethnicity nationality religion and caste in urban spaces and identity based marginalization including that of LGBT groups Overall the book brings together perspectives from the humanities and the social sciences and represents a valuable contribution to the vital theoretical and practical debates on urbanism and gender equity Digital and Smart Cities Katharine Willis,Alessandro Aurigi,2017-10-12 Digital and Smart Cities presents an overview of how technologies shape our cities There is a growing awareness in the fields of design and architecture of the need to address the way that technology affects the urban condition This book aims to give an informative and definitive overview of the topic of digital and smart cities It explores the topic from a range of different perspectives both theoretical and historical and through a range of case studies of digital cities around the world The approach taken by the authors is to view the city as a socially constructed set of activities practices and organisations This enables the discussion to open up a more holistic and citizen centred understanding of how technology shapes urban change through the way it is imagined used implemented and developed in a societal context By drawing together a range of currently quite disparate discussions the aim is to enable the reader to take their own critical position within the topic The book starts out with definitions and sets out the various interpretations and aspects of what constitutes and defines digital cities The text then investigates and considers the range of factors that shape the characteristics of digital cities and draws together different disciplinary perspectives into a coherent discussion The consideration of the different dimensions of the digital city is backed up with a series of relevant case studies

It explores how photographs display attitudes, agency and vision in the way a city is documented and imagined. It provides a visually focused examination of the city and urbanism for a range of different disciplines across the social sciences and humanities: photography and fine art. This book offers different perspectives from which to view social, political and cultural ideas about the city. It provides introductions to the theories useful to photographers addressing issues relating to urbanism and to key photographic themes that inform cultural issues central to a discussion of urbanism: e.g. the street, the everyday, social conditions. A series of case studies featuring international and contemporary photographic projects provides a means with which to examine a range of issues: for example, regeneration and displacement, power and the institution, visions of modernity and post modernity, psycho-geographical space. Cities and Photography interprets the city as a space that we inhabit on different conceptual and physical levels and gives emphasis to how people operate within, relate to and activate the city via construction, habitation and disruption.

Cities, Politics & Power Simon Parker, 2010-11-02. Traditionally the study of power in the city was confined to the institutions of urban government and the actors involved in contesting and making political decisions in and for metropolitan societies. Increasingly, however, attention has turned to the function of the city not only as a centre of urban governance but as a major economic, social, cultural and strategic force in its own right. Cities, Politics and Power combines this traditional concern with how the cities in which we live are organized and run with a broader focus on cities and urban regions as multiple sites and agents of power. This book is divided into five sections with a short introduction outlining the argument and organisation of the text. Part two charts the development of the urban polity and considers the ways in which coercion and force continue to be used to segregate, oppress and annihilate urban populations. Part three critically examines the key collective actors and processes that compete for and organise political power within cities and how urban governance operates and interacts with lesser and greater scales of government and networks of power. Part four then explores the ways in which the political is constituted by urban inhabitants and how social identity, information and communication networks and the natural and built environment all comprise intersecting fields of urban power. The conclusion calls for a broader theoretical and thematic approach to the study of urban politics. This book makes extensive use of comparative and historical case studies providing broad coverage of politics and urban movements in both the Global North and the Global South with a particular focus on the UK, USA, Canada, Latin America and China. It is written in an accessible and lucid style and provides suggestions for further reading at the end of each chapter.
