Chambers, 2012-09-18 Even in the midst of the Civil War its battlefields were being dedicated as hallowed ground Today those sites are among the most visited places in the United States In contrast the battlegrounds of the Revolutionary War had seemingly been forgotten in the aftermath of the conflict in which the nation forged its independence Decades after the signing of the Constitution the battlefields of Yorktown Saratoga Fort Moultrie Ticonderoga Guilford Courthouse Kings Mountain and Cowpens among others were unmarked except for crumbling forts and overgrown ramparts Not until the late 1820s did Americans begin to recognize the importance of these places In Memories of War Thomas A Chambers recounts America s rediscovery of its early national history through the rise of battlefield tourism in the first half of the nineteenth century Travelers in this period Chambers finds wanted more than recitations of regimental movements when they visited battlefields they desired experiences that evoked strong emotions and leant meaning to the bleached bones and decaying fortifications of a past age Chambers traces this impulse through efforts to commemorate Braddock s Field and Ticonderoga the cultivated landscapes masking the violent past of the Hudson River valley the overgrown ramparts of Southern war sites and the scenic vistas at War of 1812 battlefields along the Niagara River Describing a progression from neglect to the Romantic embrace of the landscape and then to ritualized remembrance Chambers brings his narrative up to the beginning of the Civil War during and after which the memorialization of such sites became routine assuming significant political and cultural power in the American imagination Scars of Independence Holger Hoock, 2017 Tory hunting Britain s dilemma Rubicon Plundering protectors Violated bodies Slaughterhouses Black holes Skiver them Town destroyer Americanizing the war Man for man Returning losers New Deal, New Landscape Tara Mitchell Mielnik, 2012-11-19 Tara Mitchell Mielnik fills a significant gap in the history of the New Deal South by examining the lives of the men of South Carolina s Civilian Conservation Corps CCC who from 1933 to 1942 built sixteen state parks all of which still exist today Enhanced with revealing interviews with former state CCC members Mielnik s illustrated account provides a unique exploration into the Great Depression in the Palmetto State and the role that South Carolina s state parks continue to play as architectural legacies of a monumental New Deal program In 1933 thousands of unemployed young men and World War I veterans were given the opportunity to work when Emergency Conservation Work ECW one of Franklin Delano Roosevelt s New Deal programs came to South Carolina Renamed the Civilian Conservation Corps in 1937 the program was responsible for planting millions of trees in reforestation projects augmenting firefighting activities stringing much needed telephone lines for fire prevention throughout the state and terracing farmland and other soil conservation projects The most visible legacies of the CCC in South Carolina are many of the state s national forests recreational areas and parks Prior to the work of the CCC South Carolina had no state parks but from 1933 to 1942 the CCC built sixteen Mielnik s briskly paced and informative study gives voice to the young men who labored in the South Carolina CCC and honors the legacy of the parks they built and the conservation and public recreation values these sites fostered for modern South Carolina
