Autonomous Child Ivar Frønes, 2015-10-14 The social sciences offer a variety of theories on how children develop and various theories and disciplines apply their own vocabularies and conceptualise different aspects of the processes of socialization This book looks at the theorizing of socialization in sociology anthropology psychology in the life course approach and as the interplay of genetics and environmental factors It analyses the dominant perspectives and viewpoints within each discipline and field and shows how the various theories and disciplines apply their own vocabularies and conceptualise different aspects of the processes of socialization It argues that socialization does not represent a fixed trajectory into a static social order and that different disciplines meet the challenges of complex developmental processes and changing environments in different ways Socialization is a fundamental concept in sociology but sociology has only to a limited degree sought to produce a coherent understanding of the processes of socialization which has to encompass the interplay of societal psychological and genetic factors This book draws the threads together and by doing so offers a general framework for our understanding of the socialization process At the centre of this process is the child as a subject in an interplay with the patterns and significant others of the micro environment as well as with the macro conditions of the modern knowledge based economies Handbook of Child Psychology, Child Psychology in Practice William
