Keeping Hold of Justice Jennifer Balint, Julie Evans, Nesam McMillan, Mark David McMillan, 2020-02-19 Keeping Hold of Justice focuses on a select range of encounters between law and colonialism from the early nineteenth century to the present It emphasizes the nature of colonialism as a distinctively structural injustice one which becomes entrenched in the social political legal and discursive structures of societies and thereby continues to affect people s lives in the present It charts in particular the role of law in both enabling and sustaining colonial injustice and in recognizing and redressing it In so doing the book seeks to demonstrate the possibilities for structural justice that still exist despite the enduring legacies and harms of colonialism It puts forward that these possibilities can be found through collaborative methodologies and practices such as those informing this book that actively bring together different disciplines peoples temporalities laws and ways of knowing They reveal law not only as a source of colonial harm but also as a potential means of keeping hold of justice

Justice, Community and Dialogue in International Relations Richard Shapcott, 2001-11-08 Shapcott investigates the question of justice in a culturally diverse world asking if it is possible to conceive of a universal or cosmopolitan community in which justice to difference is achieved Justice to difference is possible according to Shapcott by recognising the particular manner in which different humans identify themselves Such recognition is most successfully accomplished through acts of communication and in particular conversation The accounts of understanding developed by H G Gadamer provide a valuable way forward in this field The philosophical hermeneutic account of conversation allows for the development of a level of cosmopolitan solidarity that is both thin and universal and which helps to provide a more just resolution of the tension between the values of community and difference Students and scholars of international relations international ethics and philosophy will be interested in this original study and copyright Robert Andrew Macfie,1879 Transitional Justice in the United States of America Brianne McGonigle Leyh,2025-08-08 This book employs a transitional justice lens in order to explore justice initiatives in the United States of America Transitional justice developed out of societal demands to better address serious abuse injustice and atrocities initially in South American post authoritarian contexts transitioning to democratic states and later elsewhere but especially within post conflict contexts The lens of transitional justice has only rarely been extended to the United States and never in a comprehensive way This book aims to provide a contemporary and critical analysis of relevant developments and debates within the United States related to transitional justice Using the framework of the five main pillars of transitional justice truth reparation accountability guarantee of non repetition and memory the book identifies and explores relevant justice initiatives both historical and contemporary across federal state and local levels in the United States The empirical examples taken up show how a broad array of civil society actors are driving transitional justice processes across the country By recognizing both extraordinary and ordinary justice processes as transitional justice the book offers a broader understanding of how groups navigate transitions to more democratic peaceful and socially just societies The examples further shed light on the expansion of the field to nontraditional contexts the relationship between global norms and local practices and the role of law and political compromise The book concludes by emphasizing the value and power of the plurality of initiatives taking shape across the United States but calls for a more coherent transitional justice policy at the national level This book is relevant for scholars and students with interests in transitional justice conflict resolution human rights Indigenous studies culture and race
