

MAN MADE LANGUAGE

DALE SPENDER

"In this book, Spender argues that language is not a neutral medium of communication, but a social and cultural construct that reflects and shapes the power relations of society. He examines the ways in which language is used to create and maintain social hierarchies, and how it can be used to challenge and transform them. Spender's analysis is both rigorous and accessible, and his arguments are compelling and thought-provoking. This book is a must-read for anyone interested in the power of language and the role of the individual in society."

Man-made language is a social construct, and it is a social construct that is constantly in flux.
