Self-Projection Linda Haverty Rugg, 2014-03-01 In 1957 a decade before Roland Barthes announced the death of the author François Truffaut called for a new era in which films would resemble the person who made them and be even more personal than an autobiographical novel More than five decades on it seems that Barthes has won the argument when it comes to most film critics The cinematic author we are told has been dead for a long time Yet Linda Haverty Rugg contends not only that the art cinema auteur never died but that the films of some of the most important auteurs are intensely if complexly related to the lives and self images of their directors Self Projection explores how nondocumentary narrative art films create alternative forms of collaborative self representation and selfhood The book examines the work of celebrated directors who plant autobiographical traces in their films including Truffaut Bergman Fellini Tarkovsky Herzog Allen Almodóvar and von Trier It is not simply that these directors and many others like them make autobiographical references or occasionally appear in their films but that they tie their films to their life stories and communicate that link to their audiences Projecting a new kind of selfhood these directors encourage identifications between themselves and their work even as they disavow such connections And because of the collaborative and technological nature of filmmaking the director's self projection involves actors audience and the machines and institution of the cinema as well Lively and accessible Self Projection sheds new light on the films of these iconic directors and on art cinema in general ultimately showing how film can transform not only the autobiographical act but what it means to have a self The Publishers Weekly, 1999
