

that ends happily in a very different place, with a very different sort of God. How? Well, just the fact that Jesus is "the Son" really says it all. Being a Son means he has a Father. The God he reveals is, first and foremost, a Father. "I am the way and the truth and the life," he says. "No one comes to the Father except through me" (Jn 14:6). That is who God has revealed himself to be: not first and foremost Creator or Ruler, but Father.

Perhaps the way to appreciate this best is to ask what God was doing before creation. Now to the followers of the goat path that is an absurd, impossible question to answer; their wittiest theologians reply with the put-down: "What was God doing before creation? "Uncaused" or "Unoriginate," he therefore held, was the best basic definition of what God is like. But since the Son, being a son, must have received his being from the Father, he could not, by Arius's definition, be God.

The argument persuaded many; it did not persuade Arius's brilliant young contemporary, Athanasius. Believing that Arius had started in the wrong place with his basic definition of God, Athanasius dedicated the rest of his life to proving how catastrophic Arius's thinking was for healthy Christian living.

Actually, I've put it much too mildly: Athanasius simply boggled at

Delighting In The Trinity An Introduction To The Christian Faith:

Delighting in the Trinity Michael Reeves, 2012-07-18 In this brief and winsome book Michael Reeves presents an introduction to the Christian faith that is rooted in the triune God. He takes cues from preachers and teachers down through the ages setting key doctrines of creation, the person and work of Christ and life in the Spirit into a simple framework of the Christian life.

Delighting in the Trinity Michael D. Reeves, 2012 Why is God love? Because God is a Trinity. Why can we be saved? Because God is a Trinity. How are we able to live the Christian life? Through the Trinity. In this lively book we find an introduction to Christianity and the Christian life that is from start to finish rooted in our triune God: Father, Son, and Spirit. Not only do we understand the person and work of Christ through the Trinity but also prayer, the church, and every aspect of our faith. With wit and clarity Reeves draws from church history down to the present, referencing a wide range of notable teachers and preachers. Here is a rich and enjoyable portrayal of the basic beliefs of Christianity that opens up the profound and life-changing truths of our faith. Publisher description
