Defending Taiwan Us Pacific Commands Deterrent And Engagement Options:

Defending Taiwan: U.S. Pacific Command's Deterrent and Engagement Options, 2000 China's military modernization especially of its missile forces will soon require the United States Pacific Command USPACOM to seek proactive alternatives to carrier battle groups in order to continue to deter Chinese aggression against Taiwan. China's asymmetric niche in missile forces requires a determined effort to ensure the balance of power is not tipped to one side. Due to the military social and political change ongoing in the Peoples Republic of China PRC the next crisis across the Taiwan Strait may be less stable than the last one in 1996. As long as the PRC is in a transitional state toward democracy the propensity for conflict is greater than if the government was stable. This must be closely watched. USPACOM must lead the way in calling for missile defense systems for U S forces and for our allies. In the interim the objective of deterrence must be achieved through credibility communication and coercion when it is necessary. This can only be accomplished by increasing the current level of Sino U S military engagement. A sustained program of more bilateral exercises military to military contacts at decreasing levels of seniority and service school educational opportunities can be a positive approach to shaping the future of Sino U S relations. By proving to the PRC that the United States is not a paper tiger U S strength would serve as a credible deterrent to Chinese aggression across the Taiwan Strait. In this case time is on the side of peace and stability in the Asia Pacific region. The United States must be ready and able to provide that time.

Taiwan's New Role in the Asia-Pacific Region Gary

Klintworth, 1992

Difficult Choices Richard C. Bush, 2021-04-13 How Taiwan can overcome internal stresses and the threat from China. Taiwan was a poster child for the third wave of global democratization in the 1980s. It was the first Chinese society to make the transition to democracy and it did so gradually and peacefully. But Taiwan today faces a host of internal issues starting with the aging of society and the resulting intergenerational conflicts over spending priorities. China's long term threat to incorporate the island on terms similar to those used for Hong Kong exacerbates the island's home grown problems. Taiwan remains heavily dependent on the United States for its security but it must use its own resources to cope with Beijing's constant intimidation and pressure. How Taiwan responds to the internal and external challenges it faces and what the United States and other outside powers do to help will determine whether it is able to stand its ground against China's ambitions. The book explores the broad range of issues and policy choices Taiwan confronts and offers suggestions both for what Taiwan can do to help itself and what the United States should do to improve Taiwan's chances of success.
