Mathematics for Equity Na'ilah Suad Nasir, Carlos Cabana, Barbara Shreve, Estelle Woodbury, Nicole Louie, 2014-06-06

In this book nationally renowned scholars join classroom teachers to share equity-oriented approaches that have been successful with urban high school mathematics students. Compiling for the first time major research findings and practitioner experiences from Railside High School, the volume describes the evolution of a fundamentally different conception of learners and teaching. The chapters bring together research and reflection on teacher collaboration and professional community, student outcomes and mathematics classroom culture, reform curricula and pedagogy, and ongoing teacher development. Mathematics for Equity will be invaluable reading for teachers, schools, and districts interested in maintaining a focus on equity and improving student learning while making sense of the new demands of the Common Core Standards. Language, Power and Pedagogy Jim Cummins, 2000-09-22

Population mobility is at an all-time high in human history. One result of this unprecedented movement of peoples around the world is that in many school systems monolingual and monocultural students are the exception rather than the rule, particularly in urban areas. This shift in demographic realities entails enormous challenges for educators and policy makers. What do teachers need to know in order to teach effectively in linguistically and culturally diverse contexts? How long does it take second language learners to acquire proficiency in the language of school instruction? What are the differences between attaining conversational fluency in everyday contexts and developing proficiency in the language registers required for academic success? What adjustments do we need to make in curriculum, instruction, and assessment to ensure that second language learners understand what is being taught and are assessed in a fair and equitable manner? How long do we need to wait before including second language learners in high-stakes national examinations and assessments? What role, if any, should be accorded students' first language in the curriculum Do bilingual education programs work well for poor children from minority language backgrounds or should they be reserved only for middle class children from the majority or dominant group In addressing these issues this volume focuses not only on issues of language learning and teaching but also highlights the ways in which power relations in the wider society affect patterns of teacher student interaction in the classroom Effective instruction will inevitably challenge patterns of coercive power relations in both school and society ERS Spectrum ,2005 Family Factors and the Educational Success of Children William Jeynes,2014-02-25 Family Factors and the Educational Success of Children addresses a wide range of family variables and a diverse array of family situations in order to understand the dynamics of the multifaceted relationship between family realities and educational outcomes of children It provides research on building effective partnerships between parents and teaches the importance of parental style parental involvement as a means of improving family life the influence of family factors on children of color and the role of religion in influencing family and educational dynamics This book is a valuable resource for academics family scientists social workers psychologists parents and students The book contains research on a full variety of issues which will provide insight into a wide range of practical matters regarding the influence of the family The research methodology included in this book includes examining large data sets case studies research syntheses and other student surveys As a result of reading this book individuals will have greater insight into how a multitudinous number of family factors ultimately influence the educational success of children whether that is experienced directly or indirectly This book was published as a double special issue of Marriage and Family Review
