Kloosterman, 2006-03-30 Jan Lambooy retired in October 2002 When Jan was asked how he wanted to celebrate this occasion he was adamant that no great festivities should take place Characteristically Jan wanted just a scientific conference so he could learn something from it and as he insisted no great festivities So that is what we did and a conference was organised in Amsterdam on 25 October 2002 hosted by the Faculty of Economics and Econometrics of the University of Amsterdam Friends of Jan's from academia in the Netherlands and abroad participated and thus paid homage to Jan both as a scientist and as a person We are now very proud to present this festschrift firstly as the palpable result of this conference and secondly as a token of sincere respect and great affection for Jan Edited volumes run the danger of being a hotchpotch of contributions on a wide variety of topics Here we have explicitly focused on a central theme in contemporary economic geography and regional science namely the relationship between learning innovation and clustering Internationally renowned scientists made both theoretical and empirical contributions to this volume We think this book constitutes a broad palette of contemporary thinking and research on the relationship between spatial concentration and innovation and hope it will play a significant role in future debates on this issue Design Methodology and Relationships with Science Marc J de Vries, Nigel

Cross, D.P. Grant, 2013-03-09 Many business corporations are faced with the challenge of bringing together quite different types of knowledge in design processes knowledge of different disciplines in the natural and engineering sciences knowledge of markets and market trends knowledge of political and juridical affairs This also means a challenge for design methodology as the academic discipline that studies design processes and methods The aim of the NATO ARW of which this book is the report was to bring together colleagues from different academic fields to discuss this increasing multidisciplinary in the relationship between design and sciences This multidisciplinary made the conference a special event At a certain moment one of the participants exclaimed This is not a traditional design methodology conference Throughout the conference it was evident that there was a need to develop a common language and understanding to enable the exchange of different perspectives on design and its relationship with science The contributions that have been included in this book show these different perspectives the philosophical the historical the engineering perspective and the practical designer s experience

Writing Design Grace Lees-Maffei, 2013-09-12 How do we learn about the objects that surround us As well as gathering sensory information by viewing and using objects we also learn about objects through the written and spoken word from shop labels to friends recommendations and from magazines to patents But even as design commentators have become increasingly preoccupied with issues of mediation the intersection of design and language remains under explored Writing Design provides a unique examination of what is at stake when we convert the material properties of designed goods into verbal or textual description Issues discussed include the role of text in informing design consumption designing with and through language and the challenges and opportunities raised by design without language Bringing together a wide range of scholars and practitioners Writing Design reveals the difficulties ethics and politics of writing about design
