Coming Of Age In Second Life An Anthropologist Explores The Virtually Human:

Coming of Age in Second Life Tom Boellstorff, 2015-08-25 Millions of people around the world today spend portions of their lives in online virtual worlds Second Life is one of the largest of these virtual worlds The residents of Second Life create communities buy property and build homes go to concerts meet in bars attend weddings and religious services buy and sell virtual goods and services find friendship fall in love the possibilities are endless and all encountered through a computer screen At the time of its initial publication in 2008 Coming of Age in Second Life was the first book of anthropology to examine this thriving alternate universe Tom Boellstorff conducted more than two years of fieldwork in Second Life living among and observing its residents in exactly the same way anthropologists traditionally have done to learn about cultures and social groups in the so called real world He conducted his research as the avatar Tom Bukowski and applied the rigorous methods of anthropology to study many facets of this new frontier of human life including issues of gender race sex money conflict and antisocial behavior the construction of place and time and the interplay of self and group Coming of Age in Second Life shows how virtual worlds can change ideas about identity and society Bringing anthropology into territory never before studied this book demonstrates that in some ways humans have always been virtual and that virtual worlds in all their rich complexity build upon a human capacity for culture that is as old as humanity itself Now with a new preface in which the author places his book in light of the most recent transformations in online culture Coming of Age in Second Life remains the classic ethnography of virtual worlds

Rethinking Virtual Places Erik M. Champion, 2021-11-30 How would the humanities change if we grappled with the ways in which digital and virtual places are designed experienced and critiqued In Rethinking Virtual Places Erik Malcolm Champion draws from the fields of computational sciences and other place related disciplines to argue for a more central role for virtual space in the humanities For instance recent developments in neuroscience could improve our understanding of how people experience store and recollect place related encounters Similarly game mechanics using virtual place design might make digital environments more engaging and learning content more powerful and salient In addition Champion provides a brief introduction to new and emerging software and devices and explains how they help hinder or replace our traditional means of designing and exploring places Perfect for humanities scholars fascinated by the potential of virtual space Rethinking Virtual Places challenges both traditional and recent evaluation methods to address the complicated problem of understanding how people evaluate and engage with the notion of place

New Opportunities for Artistic Practice in Virtual Worlds Doyle, Denise, 2015-06-26 Although virtual worlds continue to grow in popularity a substantial amount of research is needed to determine best practices in virtual spaces The artistic community is one field where virtual worlds can be utilized to the greatest effect New Opportunities for Artistic Practice in Virtual Worlds provides a coherent account of artistic practices in virtual worlds and considers the contribution the Second Life platform has made in a historical theoretical and critical context within the fields of art and technology This volume is intended for both artists and scholars in the areas of digital art and technology media arts history virtual worlds and games studies as well as a broader academic audience who are interested in the philosophical implications of virtual spaces

Real Virtuality Ulrich Gehmann, Martin Reiche, 2014-06-15 Increasingly the virtual became reality by a hybridization of the world as we knew it the process that went on in recent years is one of a technically assisted hybridization of both space and self the old world is becoming virtualized and functionalized to a degree never experienced before For the first time in human history we have reached a threshold where we have not only to re assert but to redefine ourselves as regards our fundamental terms of understanding what world means for us our base of existence and now an assemblage of mixed realities and connected what being human means With a Preface by Gerd Stern Non-humans in Social Science Petr Gibas, Karolína Pauknerová, Marco Stella, 2012-04-01 Ideas of dead inert space non living machinelike reflexive controlled bodies and passive meaningless things are very modern At the very heart of the program of modernity resource exploitation and consumption is the idea that non humans have no agency they are simply resources to be manipulated and exploited at our will Mostly leaving aside the more and more evident ethical concerns of this worldview and this setting of the human non human boundary this volume attempts to explore what social sciences have to say about the relationship between the human and non human The intention of this book is to offer a non human perspective We realize that it is sometimes difficult to say whether the outcome of such a perspective would be just a shallow tendency to anthropomorphize or whether we could reach some of the previously unseen properties of non humans Being aware of the dangers this volume puts together different case studies that are more or less inspired by this non human perspective The aim is to explore what has been for a long time put aside and to provide new insights new revelations that can lead social science to undiscovered or hidden realms The outcome of this thrilling adventure can in the end be a discovery that the role of natural and social sciences or even more the character of the nature culture dichotomy would have to be re evaluated

Facets of Virtual Environments Fritz Lehmann-Grube, Jan Sablatnig, 2010-02-17 In recent years the popularity of virtual worlds has increased significantly and they have consequently come under closer academic scrutiny Papers about virtual worlds are typically published at conferences or in journals that specialize in something tirely different related to some secondary aspect of the research Thus a paper discussing legal aspects of virtual worlds may be published in a law journal while a psychologist s analysis of situation awareness may appear at a psychology conference The downside of this is that if you publish a virtual worlds paper at an unrelated conference in this manner you are likely to be one of only a handful of attendees working in the area You will not therefore achieve the most important goal of tending conferences meeting and conversing with like minded colleagues from the academic community of your field of study Virtual worlds touch on many well established themes in other areas of science Researchers from all these fields will therefore be looking at this new interesting and growing field However to do effective research related to these complex constructs researchers need to take into account many of the other facets from other fields that impact virtual worlds Only by being familiar with and paying attention to all these different aspects can virtual worlds be properly understood
