Command and Control in Military Crisis: Case 2 : the strategic colonel Harald H?iback,2003 Command and Control in Military Crisis Harald Hoiback,2012-11-12 Harald Hoiback s study focuses upon two events the 1918 Allied meeting at Doullens when the Allies ceded control to an officer and the Norwegian decision in 1940 to leave control in the hands of a colonel which led to the Nazi invasion The World Wide Military Command and Control System--major Changes Needed in Its Automated Data Processing Management and Direction United States. General Accounting Office,1979

Managing Military Operations in Crises Preston Niblack,1991 This report documents the results of a conference on Military Operations and Crisis Management held at RAND in January 1990 to explore issues concerning the use of military force in crises The conference brought together active duty and retired military officers analysts academic experts and policy officials Together they examined the constraints on and special requirements for force employment in crises that potentially involve the superpowers in a nuclear escalation Tension can arise between the conflicting logics and imperatives of force and diplomacy when two nuclear armed superpowers seek to have a war without shooting at each other The logic of force employment in crisis thus differs from that in war Conference participants concluded that the political signal that might be intended by the manipulation of military forces may not be understood by the adversary Political leaders must understand the possible costs and risks in military terms of actions taken with military forces Military leaders on the other hand must recognize the nature of the crisis management challenge to political leaders Finally political leaders must communicate their objectives clearly to those in charge of implementing them Nuclear Arms Reduction Proposals United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Foreign Relations,1982 Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals ,1994

Managing Military Organisations Joseph Soeters,Paul C.van Fenema,Robert Beeres,2010-02-02 This book deals with the processes and theories involved in managing military organisations in both peacetime and crisis conditions Examining the challenges faced by policymakers and military commanders in conducting military operations this book considers the benefits of conventional management and organisation theory for the military At the same time these essays recognise that the military should be considered as a highly individual organisation operating in exceptional circumstances This awareness of the differences between the military and other organisations generates important lessons not only for the military but also for general organisations as it teaches them how to cope in exceptional hyper conditions These theoretical lessons are illustrated by case studies and experiences from recent military operations such as those in Iraq and Afghanistan This book will be of great interest to students of military studies security studies and organizational studies Joseph Soeters chairs the department of management and organization studies and defence economy at the Netherlands Defense Academy and he is a professor in organizational sociology at Tilburg University Paul C van Fenema is an associate professor of organization studies at the Netherlands Defence Academy and Tilburg University Robert Beeres is an associate professor in the field of defence accounting and control business administration at the Netherlands Defence Academy and at Nyenrode Business School

Hearings on Military Posture and H.R. 6495 (H.R. 6974) ... Before the Committee on Armed Services, House of Representatives, Ninety-sixth Congress, Second Session United States. Congress. House. Committee on Armed Services, 1980 Military Persuasion in War and Policy Stephen J. Cimbala, 2002-10-30 Cimbala analyzes military persuasion the art of using armed force to support diplomacy deterrence crisis management unconventional conflicts peace operations and other military activities short of major conventional war As he shows military persuasion requires that policy makers and diplomats understand the subtle interaction between force and diplomacy each supports or destroys the other depending upon the situation Even conventional wars have aspects of armed persuasion The Powell doctrine that calls for overwhelming force in case of any U S military intervention was not even employed by then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Colin Powell in the Gulf War of 1991 despite the popular impression to the contrary Since U S policy is not based on imperial policing but on constructive engagement with the object of supporting democratic regimes and market economies the use of deterrence and limited military commitments of highly trained specialized warrior diplomats will be typical of 21st century conflicts As Cimbala shows in his various case studies armed forces are used most of the time for coercion not for mass destruction Yet much professional military thinking expert lay opinion and U S government analysis presupposes that there is a clear dividing line between all out peace and all out war In addition U S political culture is insensitive to the requirement for matching the political objective to the military means available as opposed to clamoring for a psychologically satisfying form of victory Despite these apparent obstacles Cimbala maintains that the United States must master military persuasion because its resources for defense are limited and its commitments are ubiquitous This book will be of particular interest to scholars students and professionals involved with defense security and foreign policy studies Planning and

Architectural Design of Modern Command Control Communications and Information Systems A. Nejat Ince, Cem Evrendilek, Dag Wilhelmsen, Fadil Gezer, 2012-12-06 The subject of this book is Command Control Communication and Information 3 C I which is the management infrastructure for any large or complex dynamic resource systems Here command means the determination of what to do and control means the ongoing management of the execution of a command 3 Decision making is the essence of C I which is accomplished through a phased implementation of a set of facilities communications personnel equipment and procedures for monitoring forecasting planning directing allocating resources and generating options to achieve specific and general objectives 3 The C I system that is in question here is for a strategic military command including its subordinate commands Although the design methodology that will be expounded in the book is for a military system it can to a large extent apply also to tactical military as well as to civilian management information systems MIS 3 A C I system is a decision making network that reflects a hierarchical organization 3 of C I nodes Each node is responsible for the management of some portion of the available resources where the higher level nodes are responsible for a

3 correspondingly greater portion of the resources Within a C I system both command and control decision making occur at every level of the hierarchy Command decisions at one level determine how to satisfy the management decisions at a higher level
