

Company Law is a wider concept based on commercial law. It states about all legal rights, relation, and conduct of a person, companies, organizations & businesses and its formation, funding, governance & death of a corporation.

History:

1. The concept of company act taken from English Companies Act, 1844.
2. The first company legislation in India was passed in 1850 known as a Joint Stock Companies Act.
3. This Act was replaced by the Joint Stock Companies Act, 1857 which introduced the principle of limited liability for the first in India.
4. This act again as a Joint Stock Companies Act, 1860 modified by addition the principle to banking companies.
5. In 1866 the first comprehensive Act provided for the incorporation, regulation and winding up of companies.
6. The 1866 Act was recast in 1882 and remained in force till 1913.
7. Later on the Indian Companies Act, 1913 was passed followed by the English Companies Act, 1908.
8. After that this act was amended and re-casted several times almost every year.
9. Finally, the Companies Act, 1956 was passed and came into force 1st April 1956 based on the English Companies Act, 1943. It consists of 658 sections and 13 schedules.
10. After 25 amendments the Companies Act, 2013 passed by Parliament by introducing a new Company Bill. It came into force on the 29th of August 2013.

The Companies Act 1956 was enacted on the recommendations of the Bhaba Committee set up in 1950 with the object to consolidate the existing corporate laws and to provide a new basis for corporate operation in independent India. With enactment of this legislation in 1956, the Companies Act 1913 was repealed.

The Companies Act, 1956, has since provided the legal framework for corporate entities in India. The need for streamlining this Act was felt from time to time as the corporate sector grew in pace with the Indian economy, with as many as 24 amendments taking place since 1956. Major amendments to the Act were made through Companies (Amendment) Act, 1988 after considering the recommendations of the Sachar Committee, and then again in
