The following is the order in which I typically implement these lessons:

1. Holocaust Day 1 PPT – I usually play Sounds of Silence by Simon & Garfunkel while this PPT is running. I usually begin this PPT and the music as soon as students begin to enter the room. There will be a bit of confusion at first, so I play it 2-3 times and use non-verbal cues if necessary to get students to be seated and quiet.
2. K&W columns of the KWL. The students can use information from the PPT for the K column if they knew nothing about the Holocaust before entering the room.
3. Introduction PPT and student notes
4. Escape from Solibor film and questions. I explain to the students that I begin the unit with this film so that they have an understanding of how horrible the things we're about to talk about were and that it gives me something to which I can refer while teaching. I also let them know that there are parts of the film that are difficult to watch, but it's important for us to learn about this part of history so that we might recognize the signs in the future.

Common Core Unit On Holocaust:

Social Justice, the Common Core, and Closing the Instructional Gap Janet C. Richards, Kristien Zenkov, 2015-10-01
There is little doubt that the Common Core State Standards CCSS are a controversial entity. They are provocative for the way in which they have been developed for the ways they are being implemented and evaluated for their content and for their failure to explicitly consider the needs, interests, and histories of diverse populations. While the CCSS continue to be problematized by critics around the country, including the editors of this volume, it is evident our nation is moving toward some would argue we have arrived at a national set of standards and/or a national curriculum. This text will be an important volume for multiple audiences in large part because it will bring together critical perspectives on the CCSS and the notion of national standards curricula. It will simultaneously provide a social justice orientation as a way to interpret the CCSS and respond to their limits while presenting practical examples of social justice oriented CCSS focused curricula that empower diverse learners and their teachers. Social Justice, the Common Core, and Closing the Instructional Gap will consist of chapters by classroom teachers and university scholars who portray honest, engaging first person accounts of their successes and challenges connecting a social justice pedagogical orientation to the Common Core State Standards. These authors candidly and passionately share the challenges of navigating between a social justice curriculum and high stakes standards and test driven environments. They highlight their accomplishments that include effectively supporting students to consider social injustices and devise plans to work toward a more equitable world. Inquiry and the Common Core Violet H. Harada, Sharon Coatney, 2013-12-16
Practicing librarians and library educators demonstrate the power of inquiry to achieve the Common Core State Standards CCSS and promote school librarians as key partners in implementing this type of critical teaching and learning in K-12 schools. With the adoption of the CCSS in most of the nation's schools, educators and administrators at K-12 schools have a pressing need to find the best ways to implement these rigorous and comprehensive standards that challenge students to understand informational text and digital content at increasing levels of complexity. This text provides faculty with much needed support in achieving this critical goal, thoroughly describing inquiry learning and how it links to the CCSS. The authors, nearly 30 contributors total, comprising librarians, library media specialists, educational leaders, teachers from the kindergarten level to college professors and administrators, each with direct experience and knowledge regarding the subject matter, explain how the standards' emphasis on in-depth investigation and evidence-based reading and writing skills dovetail perfectly with inquiry-based learning initiatives. Acclaimed thought leaders such as Jean Donham, Kristin Fontischiaro, Leslie Maniotes, and Barbara Stripling clearly define and illuminate the librarian's role in school initiatives today and share lesson plans that have been proven effective in actual practice. Mapping Comprehensive Units to the ELA Common Core Standards, K-5 Kathy Tuchman Glass, 2012-04-26
