

Cause and Effect Toolkit

Cause and Effect:

Purposes: to show a(n) event(s) that happen as a result of an earlier event

- o This text structure also has a strong time component, since causes come before effects
- o Cue words such as: cause, effect, as a result, consequently, so, so that, because of, since, in order to, are used
- o Many texts do not include just one cause-leading to one effect—instead, there may be several causes and several effects

Questions to ask as we read:

- What is the cause(s)?
- What is the effect(s)?
- What are the arrangements of cause and effect? (i.e. One cause to one effect, one cause to multiple effects, multiple causes to one effect)
- What are some cue words to tell you this is organized by cause and effect?

Now try it yourself! Directions: Read the passage. Then, write the cause and effects in the graphic organizer below.

My car broke down this morning. Since my car broke down I had to call a friend to drive me to work. In order to get to work on time I wasn't able to stop for coffee like I had planned. Unfortunately, I had to wait outside for them to get to my house so I was much colder than I would have been if I had been able to drive my car!
