Reading the Hindu and Christian Classics Francis X. Clooney, 2019-10-28 We live in an era of unprecedented growth in knowledge Never before has there been so great an availability of and access to information in both print and online Yet as opportunities to educate ourselves have greatly increased our time for reading has significantly diminished And when we do read we rarely have the patience to read in the slow sustained fashion that great books require if we are to be truly transformed by them In Reading the Hindu and Christian Classics renowned Harvard Divinity School professor Francis Clooney argues that our increasing inability to read in a concerted manner is particularly notable in the realm of religion where the proliferation of information detracts from the learning of practices that require slow and patient reading Although awareness of the world's many religions is at an all time high deep knowledge of the various traditions has suffered Clooney challenges this trend by considering six classic Hindu and Christian texts dealing with ritual and law catechesis and doctrine and devotion and religious participation showing how in distinctive ways such texts instruct teach truth and draw willing readers to participate in the realities they are learning Through readings of these seminal scriptural and theological texts he reveals the rewards of a more spiritually transformative mode of reading and how individuals and communities can achieve it

Three Rings Daniel Mendelsohn, 2020-09-08 In this genre defying book best selling memoirist and critic Daniel Mendelsohn explores the mysterious links between the randomness of the lives we lead and the artfulness of the stories we tell Combining memoir biography history and literary criticism Three Rings weaves together the stories of three exiled writers who turned to the classics of the past to create masterpieces of their own works that pondered the nature of narrative itself Erich Auerbach the Jewish philologist who fled Hitler's Germany and wrote his classic study of Western literature Mimesis in Istanbul Franois Fenelon the seventeenth century French archbishop whose ingenious sequel to the Odyssey The Adventures of Telemachus a veiled critique of the Sun King and the best selling book in Europe for one hundred years resulted in his banishment and the German novelist W G Sebald self exiled to England whose distinctively meandering narratives explore Odyssean themes of displacement nostalgia and separation from home Intertwined with these tales of exile and artistic crisis is an account of Mendelsohn's struggles to write two of his own books a family saga of the Holocaust and a memoir about reading the Odyssey with his elderly father that are haunted by tales of oppression and wandering As Three Rings moves to its startling conclusion a climactic revelation about the way in which the lives of its three heroes were linked across borders languages and centuries forces the reader to reconsider the relationship between narrative and history art and life

Hope without Optimism Terry Eagleton, 2015-09-09 In his latest book Terry Eagleton one of the most celebrated intellects of our time considers the least regarded of the virtues His compelling meditation on hope begins with a firm rejection of the role of optimism in life's course Like its close relative pessimism it is more a system of rationalization than a reliable lens on reality reflecting the cast of one's temperament in place of true discernment Eagleton turns then to hope probing the meaning of this familiar but elusive word Is it an emotion How does it differ from desire Does it fetishize the future Finally Eagleton broaches a new concept of tragic hope in which this old virtue represents a strength that remains even after devastating loss has been confronted In a wide ranging discussion that encompasses Shakespeare's Lear Kierkegaard on despair Aquinas Wittgenstein St Augustine Kant Walter Benjamin's theory of history and a long consideration of the prominent philosopher of hope Ernst Bloch Eagleton displays his masterful and highly creative fluency in literature philosophy theology and political theory Hope without Optimism is full of the customary wit and lucidity of this writer whose reputation rests not only on his pathbreaking ideas but on his ability to engage the reader in the urgent issues of life Page Barbour Lectures

Strange Talk Gavin Jones, 1999-10-19 Late nineteenth century America was crazy about dialect vernacular varieties of American English entertained mass audiences in local color stories in realist novels and in poems and plays But dialect was also at the heart of anxious debates about the moral degeneration of urban life the ethnic impact of foreign immigration the black presence in white society and the female influence on masculine authority Celebrations of the rustic raciness in American vernacular were undercut by fears that dialect was a force of cultural dissolution with the power to contaminate the dominant language In this volume Gavin Jones explores the aesthetic politics of this neglected cult of the vernacular in little known regionalists such as George Washington Cable in the canonical work of Mark Twain Henry James Herman Melville and Stephen Crane and in the ethnic writing of Abraham Cahan and Paul Laurence Dunbar He reveals the origins of a trend that deepened in subsequent literature the use of minority dialect to formulate a political response to racial oppression and to enrich diverse depictions of a multicultural nation
