Socratic Circles Matt Copeland, 2005 The benefits and importance of Socratic seminars are widely recognized but little has been written on how to make them happen successfully in the classroom In Socratic Circles Fostering Critical and Creative Thinking in Middle and High School author Matt Copeland provides real world examples and straightforward answers to frequent questions He creates a coaching guide for both the teacher new to Socratic seminars and the experienced teacher seeking to optimize the benefits of this powerful strategy Socratic Circles also shows teachers who are familiar with literature circles the many ways in which these two practices complement and extend each other Effectively implemented Socratic seminars enhance reading comprehension listening and speaking skills and build better classroom community and conflict resolution skills By giving students ownership over the classroom discussion around texts they become more independent and motivated learners Ultimately because there is a direct relationship between the level of participation and the richness of the experience Socratic seminars teach students to take responsibility for the quality of their own learning Filled with examples to help readers visualize the application of these concepts in practice Socratic Circles includes transcripts of student dialogue and work samples of preparation and follow up activities The helpful appendices offer ready to copy handouts and examples and suggested selections of text that connect to major literary works As our classrooms and our schools grow increasingly focused on meeting high standards and differentiating instruction for a wide variety of student needs and learning styles Socratic seminars offer an essential classroom tool for meeting these goals Socratic Circles is a complete and practical guide to Socratic seminars for the busy classroom teacher

The Art of Dialogue Ineke de Feijter, 2007 Media and culture are deeply intertwined in contemporary society Religions have problems relating to this media culture which is shaped by media processes and conditioned by digital media and interactive forms of communication Media set the agenda and they profoundly challenge religions both with respect to their public communication and their very existence and public relevance People increasingly use media for shaping their religious identity and their search with respect to questions of ultimate meaning Barely any theological studies exist that reflect on religious policies and their subsequent praxis in the field of communication The author analyzes Christian policy views and identifies the main problems and opportunities in relating to media culture position In Associate Pastors Michael Matthew Mauriello demonstrates how associate pastors can harness the ambiguity that accompanies their role in ways that can mutually benefit church members and other pastoral staff The heart of Associate Pastors comes from personal interviews with twenty five associate pastors in small to medium sized churches who have served in pastoral ministry positions for more than ten years Their shared experiences demonstrate the unique social and spiritual dynamics of the associate pastor role and suggest great promise for those willing to approach their calling with creativity and care Specifically when associate pastors facilitate learning within their congregations they confer benefits on church leadership and laypeople alike Dr Michael Mauriello s research is fueled by his love for God and the desire to see pastors flourish Associate Pastors Ministry from the Middle is a must read for Christian leaders Deborah Colwill associate professor of educational and leadership studies Trinity Evangelical Divinity School Dr Michael Mauriello has written a thoughtful and well researched guide for associate pastors who want to understand the dynamics and strategic advantages of their role He not only understands the position but he can help pastors serve effectively from the middle seat Lee Eclov adjunct professor Trinity Evangelical Divinity School columnist PreachingToday com This is a much needed contribution to resources addressing the unique role of associate pastors those who navigate complicated relationships as a pastoral practice Donald C Guthrie executive director Center for Transformational Churches Jeanette L Hsieh Chair of Educational Leadership and director of the PhD educational studies Trinity Evangelical Divinity School Getting the Message George A. Goens, 2021-03-15 Society today is fragmented There are frequent examples of harsh and abrasive discourse in social employment personal and political settings Name calling conceit and vulgarity are frequently used in social media and other forms of social interaction and discussion Communication is a critical issue in today s society We live in a technological time with the means to easily contact people However the quality and effectiveness of communication is problematic real connections with others require understanding and insight into them and their thinking That is the purpose of true communication Individuals must understand the content and intent of communication The missing link in quality and effective communication is listening Everyone wants to be heard but they fail to realize that all parties must listen Listening is an essential skill and is more than simply hearing Communication is essential in all facets of life because it concerns not only the physical process of talking and listening but also emotional and psychological concerns and ethics The nature of the conversation brings expectations and either opens or closes doors to further communication
