Cities And Climate Change Responding To An Urgent Agenda Urban Development:

Cities and Climate Change Daniel Hoornweg, Mila Freire, Marcus J. Lee, Perinaz Bhada-Tata, Belinda Yuen, 2011-06-02
This book provides the latest knowledge and practice in responding to the challenge of climate change in cities. Case studies focus on topics such as New Orleans in the context of a fragile environment, a framework to include poverty in the cities and climate change discussion and measuring the impact of GHG emissions. Mega-Urban Development and Transformation Processes in Vietnam Frauke Kraas, Javier Revilla Diez, Matthias Garschagen, Le Thu Hoa, 2023. Since the beginning of the Doi Moi reforms, Vietnam's economy and society have been profoundly transformed. While in 1986 less than 13 million of Vietnam's inhabitants lived in areas classified as urban, 20% the number has risen to more than 30 million inhabitants today, 35% of the total population. This massive urbanisation was made possible by the rapid transformation of the former agricultural state into an industrial and service state and extensive migration processes from rural areas to the fast growing cities and megacities. Fifteen articles analyse the current situation. Cities and Climate Change Harriet Bulkeley, 2013-05-07. Climate change is one of the most significant global challenges facing the world today. It is also a critical issue for the world's cities. Now home to over half the world's population, urban areas are significant sources of greenhouse gas emissions and are vulnerable to the impacts of climate change. Responding to climate change is a profound challenge. A variety of actors are involved in urban climate governance, with municipal governments, international organisations and funding bodies pointing to cities as key arenas for response. This book provides the first critical introduction to these challenges, giving an overview of the science and policy of climate change at the global level and the emergence of climate change as an urban policy issue. It considers the challenges of governing climate change in the city in the context of the changing nature of urban politics, economics, society and infrastructures. It looks at how responses for mitigation and adaptation have emerged within the city and the implications of climate change for social and environmental justice. Drawing on examples from cities in the north and south and richly illustrated with detailed case studies, this book will enable students to understand the potential and limits of addressing climate change at the urban level and to explore the consequences for our future cities. It will be essential reading for undergraduate students across the disciplines of geography, politics, sociology, urban studies, planning and science and technology studies. Land Solutions for Climate Displacement Scott Leckie, 2014-05-23. The threat of climate displacement looms large over a growing number of countries. Based on the more than six years of work by Displacement Solutions in ten climate affected countries, academic work on displacement and climate adaptation and the country level efforts of civil society groups in several frontline countries, this report explores the key contention that land will be at the core of any major strategy aimed at preventing and resolving climate displacement. This innovative and timely volume, coordinated and edited by the Founder of Displacement Solutions, Scott Leckie, examines a range of legal, policy and practical issues relating to the role of land in actively addressing the displacement consequences of climate change It reveals the inevitable truth that climate displacement is already underway and being tackled in countries such as Bangladesh Kiribati Papua New Guinea Solomon Islands Tuvalu and the United States and proposes a series of possible land solution tools that can be employed to protect the rights of people and communities everywhere should they be forced to flee the places they call home Climate Change Governance Jörg Knieling, Walter Leal Filho, 2012-07-30 Climate change is a cause for concern both globally and locally In order for it to be tackled holistically its governance is an important topic needing scientific and practical consideration Climate change governance is an emerging area and one which is closely related to state and public administrative systems and the behaviour of private actors including the business sector as well as the civil society and non governmental organisations Questions of climate change governance deal both with mitigation and adaptation whilst at the same time trying to devise effective ways of managing the consequences of these measures across the different sectors Many books have been produced on general matters related to climate change such as climate modelling temperature variations sea level rise but to date very few publications have addressed the political economic and social elements of climate change and their links with governance This book will address this gap Furthermore a particular feature of this book is that it not only presents different perspectives on climate change governance but it also introduces theoretical approaches and brings these together with practical examples which show how main principles may be implemented in practice Energy Efficient Cities Ranjan K. Bose, 2010-04-29 These papers presented at the Fifth Urban Research Symposium in Marseille France put into perspective ESMAP's prioritization of city wide and sector specific urban energy initiatives to make cities energy efficient providing analytical tools policy insights and good practices Planning to Cope with Tropical and Subtropical Climate Change Maurizio Tiepolo, 2016-09-12 This book provides examples of climate change characterization and decision making tools for subtropical and tropical adaptation planning It is intended for local operators physical planners besides researchers and students of these subjects The first chapter describes the status of climate planning in large subtropical and tropical cities The following six chapters discuss hazards drought intense precipitations sea level rise sea water intrusion and early warning systems Nine chapters enlarge on flood risk analysis and preliminary mapping climate change vulnerability comparing contingency plans in various scales and presenting experiences centred on adaptation planning The last three chapters introduce some best practices of weather and climate change monitoring and flood risk mapping and assessment Climate Change 2014 - Impacts, Adaptation and Vulnerability: Global and Sectoral Aspects Christopher B. Field, Vicente R. Barros, 2014-12-29 This latest Fifth Assessment Report of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC will again form the standard reference for all those concerned with climate change and its consequences including students researchers and policy makers in environmental science meteorology climatology biology ecology atmospheric chemistry and environmental policy Financing Africa's Cities Thierry Paulais, 2012-07-05 This volume addresses the issues of financing urban growth of the African continent which has the highest urban growth rate on the planet in the next decades Considerable investment will be needed to sustain this level of growth and to clear up accumulated backlogs At the same time decentralization has resulted in increased responsibilities for local government but in most cases institutional reforms were carried out without the transfer of a sufficient level of resources and local capacities in governance and project management are weak Which mechanisms will finance these extensive needs and how will African local governments meet these needs Specifics on how to finance African cities have not been studied The actual scale of this market has not been fully grasped A systemic approach to this market is difficult because of its diversity country size institutional context characteristics of urban network availability of capital market currency etc and a lack of data Donors assistance methods in the sector are disparate marked by disputes between different schools of thought special purpose vehicles created by donors operate according to a variety of methods and with wide ranging and sparsely disseminated results What is the best way to transform these systems often antiquated in many respects into modern financing systems that facilitate access to domestic markets mobilize local savings and reinforce local government autonomy There is no single answer to this question in regard to such a variety of institutional and economic contexts The main objective of the study is to clarify the debates and to enlighten the choices of African decision makers at local and national level

Decarbonising Cities Vanessa Rauland, Peter Newman, 2015-03-27 This book sets out some positive directions to move forward including government policy and regulatory options an innovative GRID Greening Regenerative Improvement Districts scheme that can assist with funding and management and the first steps towards an innovative carbon credit scheme for the built environment Decarbonising cities is a global agenda with huge significance for the future of urban civilisation Global demonstrations have shown that technology and design issues are largely solved However the mainstreaming of low carbon urban development particularly at the precinct scale currently lacks sufficient standards for measuring carbon covering operational embodied and transport emissions assessment and decision making tools to assist in design options certifying processes for carbon neutrality within the built environment and accreditation processes for enabling carbon credits to be generated from precinct wide urban development Numerous barriers are currently hindering greater adoption of high performance low carbon developments many of which relate to implementation and governance How to enable and manage precinct scale renewables and other low carbon technologies within an urban setting is a particular challenge
