Cicero De Imperio Latin Texts:

Cicero, On Pompey's Command (De Imperio), 27-49 Ingo Gildenhard, Louise Hodgson, 2014-09-03 In republican times one of Rome's deadliest enemies was King Mithridates of Pontus. In 66 BCE after decades of inconclusive struggle the tribune Manilius proposed a bill that would give supreme command in the war against Mithridates to Pompey the Great who had just swept the Mediterranean clean of another menace the pirates. While powerful aristocrats objected to the proposal which would endow Pompey with unprecedented powers the bill proved hugely popular among the people and one of the praetors Marcus Tullius Cicero also hastened to lend it his support. In his first ever political speech variously entitled pro lege Manilia or de imperio Gnaei Pompei Cicero argues that the war against Mithridates requires the appointment of a perfect general and that the only man to live up to such lofty standards is Pompey. In the section under consideration here Cicero defines the most important hallmarks of the ideal military commander and tries to demonstrate that Pompey is his living embodiment. This course book offers a portion of the original Latin text study aids with vocabulary and a commentary. Designed to stretch and stimulate readers the incisive commentary will be of particular interest to students of Latin at both AS and undergraduate level. It extends beyond detailed linguistic analysis and historical background to encourage critical engagement with Cicero's prose and discussion of the most recent scholarly thought.

De Imperio Cicero, 2013-12-19 De Imperio Cn Pompeii in support of Pompey or Pro Lege Manilia in favour of the Manilian law was Cicero's first speech on public affairs. Delivered in 66 BC when Cicero was praetor he argued in support of a proposal from Manilius the tribune at that time to extend Pompey's command in the East and so take over the command in the war against Mithridates. The speech charts the moment when Cicero was transformed from lawyer to politician but also effected a decision which led to Rome's success in the third Mithridatic War and her assertion of supremacy in the East. This edition contains sections 27-45 where Cicero discusses how to choose a general passionately advocating for a leader with the skills and expertise of Pompey. The introductory essay provides an overview of the historical and political context and provides detail on the rhetorical and literary devices employed by Cicero in this speech. Detailed commentary notes accompanying the Latin text gloss difficult words and phrases explain references to Cicero's contemporary politics and highlight instances of oratorical usage. This is the prescribed edition of the prose set text for OCR's AS GCE Classics Latin qualification for examination from 2015 to 2017 inclusive.

Cicero, on Pompey's Command (de Imperio), 27-49 Ingo Gildenhard, 2014 Reading Republican Oratory Christa Gray, Andrea Balbo, Richard M. A. Marshall, Catherine E. W. Steel, 2018-02-13 Public speech was a key aspect of politics in Republican Rome both in theory and in practice and recent decades have seen a surge in scholarly discussion of its significance and performance Yet the partial nature of the surviving evidence means that our understanding of its workings is dominated by one man whose texts are the only examples to have survived in complete form since antiquity Cicero This collection of essays aims to broaden our conception of the oratory of the Roman Republic by exploring how it was practiced by individuals other than Cicero whether major statesmen jobbing lawyers or exceptionally the wives of politicians It focuses particularly on the surviving fragments of such oratory with individual essays tackling the challenges posed both by the partial and often unreliable nature of the evidence about these other Roman orators often known to us chiefly through the tendentious observations of Cicero himself and the complex intersections of the written fragments and the oral phenomenon Collectively the essays are concerned with the methods by which we are able to reconstruct non Ciceronian oratory and the exploration of new ways of interpreting this evidence to tell us about the content context and delivery of those speeches They are arranged into two thematic Parts the first addressing questions of reception selection and transmission and the second those of reconstruction contextualization and interpretation together they represent a comprehensive overview of the non Ciceronian speeches that will be of use to all ancient historians philologists and literary classicists with an interest in the oratory of the Roman Republic Catalogue University of North Dakota, 1916
