Cincuenta Lecciones De Exilio Y Desexilio:

Cincuenta lecciones de exilio y desexilio Gustavo Pérez Firmat, 2000 Reflexiones sobre el exilio el lenguaje y la identidad 2000 Next Year in Cuba: A Cubano's Coming of Age Gustavo P?rez Firmat, 1995-01-01 Gustavo P rez Firmat arrived in America with his family at the age of eleven Victims of Castro s revolution the P rez family put their life on hold waiting for Castro s fall Each Christmas along with other Cuban families in the neighborhood they celebrated with the cry Next year in Cuba Growing up in the Dade County school system and graduating from college in Florida P rez Firmat was insulated from America by the nurturing sights and sounds of Little Havana It wasn t until he left home to attend graduate school at the University of Michigan that he realized as the Cuba of his birth receded farther into the past he had become no longer wholly Cubano but increasingly a man of two heritages and two countries In a searing memoir of a family torn apart by exile P rez Firmat chronicles the painful search for roots that has come to dominate his adult life With one brother beset by personal problems and another embracing the very revolution that drove their family out of Cuba Gustavo realized that the words Next Year in Cuba had for him taken on a hollow ring Now married to an American woman and father to two children who are Cuban in name only P rez Firmat has finally come to acknowledge his need to celebrate his love of Cuba while embracing the America he has come to love A Companion to US Latino Literatures Carlota Caulfield, Darién J. Davis, 2007 A panorama of literature by Latinos whether born or resident in the United States Identity, Memory, and Diaspora Jorge J. E. Gracia, Lynette M. F. Bosch, Isabel Alvarez Borland, 2009-01-08 This fascinating volume contains interviews with nineteen prominent Cuban American artists writers and philosophers who tell their stories and share what they consider important for understanding their work Struggling with issues of Cuban American identity in particular and social identity in general they explore such questions as how they see themselves how they have dealt with the diaspora and their memories what they have done to find a proper place in their adopted country and how their work has been influenced by the experience Their answers reveal different perspectives on art literature and philosophy and the different challenges encountered personally and professionally The interviews are gathered into three groups nine artists six writers and four philosophers An introductory essay for each group is included and the interviews are accompanied by brief biographical notes along with samples of the work of those interviewed Misplaced Objects Silvia Spitta, 2009-07-01 When things move things change Starting from this deceptively simple premise Silvia Spitta opens a fascinating window onto the profound displacements and transformations that have occurred over the six centuries since material objects and human subjects began circulating between Europe and the Americas This extended reflection on the dynamics of misplacement starts with the European practice of collecting objects from the Americas into Wunderkammern literally cabinets of wonders Stripped of all identifying contexts these exuberant collections including the famous Real Gabinete de Historia Natural de Madrid upset European certainties forcing a reorganization of knowledge that gave rise to scientific inquiry and to the epistemological shift we call modernity In contrast cults such as that of the Virgin of Guadalupe arose out of the reverse migration from Europe to the Americas The ultimate marker of mestizo identity in Mexico the Virgin of Guadalupe is now fast crossing the U S Mexico border and miracles are increasingly being reported Misplaced Objects then concludes with the more intimate and familial collections and recollections of Cuban and Mexican American artists and writers that are contributing to the Latinization of the United States Beautifully illustrated and radically interdisciplinary Misplaced Objects clearly demonstrates that it is not the awed viewer but rather the misplaced object itself that unsettles our certainties allowing new meanings to emerge

Anything But Love Gustavo Pérez Firmat, 2000-03-31 Some people would call Frank Guerra fussy even compulsive but they're wrong He simply believes in perfection He strives to make every textbook he writes into a work of art and he intends that every Cuba Libre he mixes come out textbook perfect The key Exactly six drops of lime juice for each ounce of rum And Frank also believes in romantic love In fact he believes in love so strongly that he's willing to divorce his faithful wife Marta who's a real mensch about it lose his old friends and even leave behind his adoring daughter Emily all for the sake of his new americana a sedate but supremely sexy schoolteacher named Catherine O'Neal or Cat for short But it's worth all the pain Cat believes in their love too So why when he looks deep into Cat's cool sphinx-like eyes can Frank never penetrate into her depths Why does he begin to see only his own gaze reflected there as if from twin funhouse mirrors Is she hiding something from him anything Everything maybe Is his Cat merely toying with him Frank finds the possibility disturbing He expects his perfect love to be fully and equally reciprocated After all in an imperfect unstable world filled with disappointment isn't there any ideal anything that's really worth living for maybe even dying for Frank can't think of anything but love

Narratives of Migration and Displacement in Dominican Literature Danny Méndez, 2012-03-12

Establishing an interdisciplinary connection between Migration Studies Post Colonial Studies and Affect Theory M ndez analyzes the symbolic interplay between emotions cognitions and displacement in the narratives written by and about Dominican and Dominican Americans in the United States and Puerto Rico He argues that given the historic place of creolization as a marker of national cultural and social development in the Caribbean and particularly the Dominican Republic this cultural process is not magically annulled in Caribbean immigrations to the U S Instead this book illustrates the numerous ways in which Dominicans subjective interpretation of their experiences of migration and incorporation into U S society seen through the filter of multiple creolizations of the past are woven into their written works as a series of variations on Americanness and Dominicanness Through close readings of selected writings by Pedro Henr quez Ure a Jos Luis Gonz lez Junot D az Josefina B ez Loida Maritza P rez among others M ndez argues that emotional creolizations operate as a psychological parameter on immigrant populations as they negotiate their transcultural status against the ideological norms of assimilation in their new host country Consequently he proposes that this emotional creolization is dialectical that is it not only affects diasporic populations but also changes the norms and terms of assimilation as well
