Self-care and You Kim Richards,Elizabeth Sheen,Maria C. Mazzer,2014-06-01 In this health and wellness guide self care means choosing behaviors to counter emotional and physical stress from exercise and nutritious eating to self centering practices To live a life of meaningful contribution as a nurse to your patients colleagues and others you may need to make changes in your own life first This integrated self care guide by three nurse coaches with extensive expertise is organized by six self care pathways Numerous detailed examples guidelines tips techniques and insights are included about each pathway to help you to assess and guide your self care journey Provided by publisher Self-Care for Caregivers Susanne White,2022-09-06 It s time to give yourself some self care From morning to evening whether it s assisting with hygiene or making sure your loved one gets to their doctor s appointment on time a caregiver s work is never done Though borne from love caregiving can be exhausting both physically and mentally which is why it s important to take care of yourself No matter the time of day Self Care for Caregivers is here to help you create a self care routine that is right for you Replenish your mind body and spirit with short easy to squeeze in activities like taker you emotional temperature accept the big feelings caregiving triggers practice mindfulness with the five senses get rid of the judge in your head regain your balance and more Full of helpful advice this empathetic useful guide is the perfect everyday companion for you Fill your cup with Self Care for Caregivers Caring for the Caregiver Roy W. Harris,2009-12 Caring For The Caregiver was written to encourage and help those who are providing care for terminally ill family members and friends It provides a step by step walk through the caregiving process including caregiver principles at the close of each chapter to aid and encourage the caregiver from author s website Caring for the Family Caregiver Elaine Wittenberg,Joy Goldsmith,Sandra L. Ragan,Terri Ann Parnell,2020-09-11 Caring for the Family Caregiver is an extensive practical tool kit for health care providers across the healthcare continuum Regardless if it is a mother caring for a child with a developmental disability a wife caring for a husband with a long term chronic illness or a daughter sitting at the bedside of her father who is enrolled in hospice family caregivers are the silent other patient in the health care drama Healthcare providers who do not attend to the needs of the caregiver not only inflict interactional suffering but dilute their treatment by not engaging the caregiver as a partner In fact they may unintentionally do harm as the caregiver flounders and thus patient treatment fails As noted by one dying cancer patient in an educational YouTube video of his cancer journey there are two patients not one If we are to eliminate the interactional suffering experienced by family caregivers we must train both the caregiver and the health care team for the important interaction and roles that are required for the successful care of the patient Caregivers lack information skills and emotional support for the tireless task they are volunteering for They need to be taught how to advocate for themselves and their patients and how to best communicate with the health care team Likewise health care providers have the skills and knowledge to provide outstanding patient centered care however they are not taught the importance of the family caregiver nor do they always understand that experience or how to help Caring for the Caregiver Linda Sage,2017-09-26 Care giving professionals are notoriously poor at looking after themselves they give part of themselves everyday see people at their lowest and most vulnerable As well as being exposed to the physical trauma they deal with acute psychological distress on a daily basis their own and of others Learning to still follow your dreams and have personal goals many just put their life on a back burner and let others take over This is a dangerous trait as it leads to unhappiness stress discontentment and burnout Many great people are leaving all areas of caring because they feel they are running on empty Giving excuses and blame for this to others will not change anything Take charge of your life your choices and your outcomes This to a carer will sound selfish but in reality what is going to happen to your patients when you are absent minded make mistakes get upset or angry when you burnout and are no longer able to care for yourself or them Looking after yourself is not a luxury it is a necessity being resilient knowing your boundaries and learning to say no are fundamental for your wellbeing and for your patients Learn how to off load self sabotaging thoughts beliefs and habits Choose what internal and external baggage you carry with you Dump outdated thoughts replace them with a more positive protective and proactive outlook to achieve better outcomes Caring for the wellbeing of others is a fundamental part of you but learning to care about yourself seems to take a lot of work Seeing your needs wants and desires as equal to everyone else is a must By keep giving small pieces of yourself to everyone else when do you have time energy or inclination to give to yourself Compassion Fatigue is not acknowledge in the Northern Hemisphere but the feeling of running on empty is undoubtedly known to all professions volunteers and home carers It is a silent killer a demon that will take you emotionally psychologically and physically to exhaustion There are ways for you to feel better to learn to love yourself and to live the life you desire and deserve as well as giving to others You have to take control and get rid of outdated thoughts beliefs and habits To be not just the best professional you can be but the best person for you and for others The Conscious Caregiver Linda Abbit,2017-09-05 Linda Abbit founder of Tender Loving Eldercare and a veteran of the caregiving industry shares her advice on taking care of an older parent or loved one and how to handle everything that goes along with this dramatic life change Being a caregiver can be a difficult role It requires patience tenderness selflessness and hard work Providing care for someone whether it s a parent a loved one or as a professional requires a high level of self love and self care But while it may be a rewarding experience to care for a loved one the emotional and physical stress of caregiving can lead to burnout and exhaustion causing caregivers to put themselves and their own well being in the background How can you fulfill your role as a caregiver without losing yourself Conscious Caregiver teaches you how to navigate caring for your loved one whether it s full time in house caregiving or hiring support from outside services With information on how to talk to your loved ones about the situation handle the emotional stress stay financially secure and take the time to care for yourself this guide can help you care for your loved one and yourself at the same time Self-Care for Caregivers Pat Samples,Diane Larsen,Marvin Larsen,2000-09-01 Self Care for Caregivers
