Climate Change In Bangladesh Confronting Impending Disasters:

Climate Change in Bangladesh Harun Rasid, Bimal Paul, 2013-11-26 Climate Change in Bangladesh Confronting Impending Disasters is a comprehensive analysis of climate change impacts on Bangladesh followed by a review of measures for confronting the manifested threats of climate change on the people and environment of Bangladesh. Using an integrative approach, the authors blend their own work on indigenous adjustments to climatic hazards in Bangladesh with an analysis of the role of modern engineering intervention and disaster management policies in alleviating these hazards. There is also an emphasis on the environment and people of coastal Bangladesh who are at risk of inundation due to global warming-induced sea level rise. Thus, in addition to analyzing main climatic disasters at some length—tropical cyclones, hurricanes, floods, droughts, and sea level rise—key topics of human dimensions of climate change include climate change victims, climate refugees, climate justice, public policies on climate change, and a sample of adaptation measures for living with the rising sea levels.

Living on the Edge Mohammad Zaman, Mustafa Alam, 2021-07-27 In Bangladesh, the chars within the river channels are an important part of its landscape. However, these land masses continue to remain isolated, deprived of services, and pockets of poverty in the country. The char dwellers are vulnerable to natural hazards like flood and erosion. In addition to these hazards, the coastal chars are faced with the imminent problem of widespread inundation due to sea level rise resulting from climate change. Within this context, the book Living on the Edge: Char Dwellers in Bangladesh has brought together valuable scholarship on the diverse issues relating to the chars and the communities living in there. This comprehensive collection, with contributions of experts on the subject from across the globe, provides an understanding of the problems faced by the char dwellers and also comes up with policy prescriptions for ensuring the overall welfare of char communities in the country.

Reporting Climate Change in the Global North and South Jahnnabi Das, 2019-08-29 This book reveals how journalists in the Global North and Global South mediate climate change by examining journalism and reporting in Australia and Bangladesh. This dual analysis presents a unique opportunity to examine the impacts of media and communication in two contrasting countries in terms of economy income and population size which both face serious climate change challenges In reporting on these challenges journalism as a political institutional and cultural practice has a significant role to play It is influential in building public knowledge and contributes to knowledge production and dialogue however the question of who gets to speak and who doesn't is a significant determinant of journalists capacity to establish authority and assign cultural meaning to realities By measuring the visibility from presences and absences the book explores the extent to which the influences are similar or different in the two countries contrasting how journalists communication power conditions public thought on climate change The investigation of climate communication across the North South divide is especially urgent given the global commitment to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and it is critical we gain a fuller understanding of the dynamics of climate communication in low emitting low income countries as much as in the high emitters high income countries This book contributes to this understanding and highlights the value of a dual analysis in being able to draw out parallels as well as divergences which will directly assist in developing cross national strategies to help address the mounting challenge of climate change This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of climate change and environmental journalism as well as media and communication studies more broadly
