Performing Arts, Media Access and Entertainment Paolo Nesi, 2012 It has been a long history of Information Technology innovations within the Cultural Heritage areas The Performing arts has also been enforced with a number of new innovations which unveil a range of synergies and possibilities Most of the technologies and innovations produced for digital libraries media entertainment and education can be exploited in the field of performing arts with adaptation and repurposing Performing arts offer many interesting challenges and opportunities for research and innovations and exploitation of cutting edge research results from interdisciplinary areas For these reasons the ECLAP 2012 can be regarded as a continuation of past conferences such as AXMEDIS and WEDELMUSIC both pressed by IEEE and FUP ECLAP is an European Commission project to create a social network and media access service for performing arts institutions in Europe to create the e library of performing arts exploiting innovative solutions coming from the ICT

The BBC's management of digital media initiative Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2011-04-07 This report examines the management of the contract with Siemens and the BBC s in house development of the Digital Media Initiative Programme The Programme is designed to transform the way in which BBC staff create use and share video and audio material It involves the development of new technology to allow staff to manage content efficiently on their desktops in order to give greater accessibility of digital content for audiences on TV online and radio The BBC has made good progress in delivering the programme in house since it terminated its contract with Siemens It is now on course to deliver the complete technology by summer 2011 With hindsight the BBC should not have let the contract for its Digital Media Initiative to Siemens without testing the contractor against other suppliers especially as there was a high degree of innovation involved The Programme is no longer expected to deliver the overall net financial benefit of 17.9 million originally anticipated The BBC approved the Programme on the basis that it would cost 81.7 million and deliver benefits of 99.6 million but now forecasts costs of 133.6 million and benefits of 95.4 million a net cost of 38.2 million The Committee welcomes the Trust s assurance that it would now take a more challenging approach when considering procurements but are concerned with the ease with which the BBC found over 50 million in savings to make up for the losses it suffered through late delivery of the project and its own increased delivery costs This suggests the need for a more vigilant approach to value for money
