 Michael Bashwiner,Rex Eugene Jung,2022-01-12 Creative Ecologies Bronislaw Malinowski,John Howkins,2018-02-06 The main question of our age is how we live our lives As we struggle with this question we face others How do we handle ideas and knowledge both our own and those of others What relationship to ideas do we want Whose ideas do we want to be surrounded by Where do we want to think Most choose or have the choice made for them according to what family colleagues and friends do and say and what we read about and a more or less rational calculation of the odds Modern ecology results from the shift in thinking generated by quantum physics and systems theory from the old view based on reductionism mechanics and fixed quantities to a new view based on holistic systems where qualities are contingent on the observer and on each other This perception changes how people treat ideas and facts certainties and uncertainties and affects both art and science Worldwide it is part of the process of understanding the current crisis in the environment and the balance of economy creativity and control required in our response The book s starting point is the growing role that information has played in industrial economies since the 1800s and especially in the last thirty years It is an attempt to identify ecology of thinking and learning It is also based on the need to escape from old industrial ways and become more attuned to how people actually borrow develop and share ideas Throughout the book Howkins asks questions and offers signposts He gives no guarantee that creative ecologies will be sustainable but shows what should be aimed for
