Collecting Kamoro Mededelingen Van Het Rijksmuseum Voor Volkenkunde Leiden:

Collecting Kamoro Karen Jacobs, 2011 The story of ethnographic collecting is one of cross cultural encounters This book focuses on collecting encounters in the Kamoro region of Papua from the earliest collections made in 1828 until 2011 Exploring the links between representation and collecting the author focuses on the creative and pragmatic agency of Kamoro people in these collecting encounters By considering objects as visualizations of social relations and as enactments of personal social or historical narrative this book combines filling a gap in the literature on Kamoro culture with an interest in broader questions that surround the nature of ethnographic collecting representation patronage and objectification

Cross-Cultural Heritage Jonas Van Mulder, Thomas Coomans, Dries Vansacker, 2025-04-09 For centuries Christian missions have intervened in local religious communities practices and ideas across the globe generating encounters between Indigenous and Western cultures that have ranged from hostile confrontation to intercultural osmosis While primarily intended as a strategy for evangelisation forms of inculturation also led to the emergence of new hybrid cultural and religious expressions These creative processes were rarely unidirectional instead they involved reciprocal cultural transactions in which local communities exerted significant agency Cross Cultural Heritage deepens our understanding of the intricate relationships between missions and missionised communities These are reflected in the material and immaterial legacies of missionary histories in various contexts in South America Africa Asia the Pacific and Europe Often they remain deeply rooted in landscapes memories and practices today

Creating Authenticity Alexander Geurds, Laura Van Broekhoven, 2013-11-27 Authenticity and authentication is at the heart of museums concerns in displays objects and interaction with visitors These notions have formed a central element in early thought on culture and collecting Nineteenth century explorers commissioned museum collectors and pioneering ethnographers attempted to lay bare the essences of cultures through collecting and studying objects from distant communities Comparably historical archaeology departed from the idea that cultures were discrete bounded entities subject to divergence but precisely therefore also to be traced back and linked to a more complete original form in the even deeper past Much of what we work with today in ethnographic museum collections testifies to that conviction Post structural thinking brought about a far reaching deconstruction of the authentic It came to be recognized that both far away communities and the deep past can only be discussed when seen as desires constructions and inventions Notwithstanding this undressing of the ways in which people portray their cultural surroundings and past claims of authenticity and quests for authentication remain omnipresent This book explores the authentic in contemporary ethnographic museums as it persists in dialogues with stakeholders and how museums portray themselves How do we interact with questions of authenticity and authentication when we curate study artefacts collect repatriate and make representations The contributing authors illustrate the divergent nature in which the authentic is brought into play deconstructed and operationalized Authenticity the book argues is an expression of a desire that is equally troubled as it is resilient Amotopoan Trails Jimmy Mans,2012 In this book the concept of mobility is explored for the archaeology of the Amazonian and Caribbean region As a result of technological and methodological progress in archaeology mobility has become increasingly visible on the level of the individual However as a concept it does not seem to fit with current approaches in Amazonian archaeology which favour a move away from viewing small mobile groups as models for the deeper past Instead of ignoring such ethnographic tyrannies in this book they are considered to be essential for arriving at a different past Viewing archaeological mobility as the sum of movements of both people and objects the empirical part of Amotopoan Trails focuses on Amotopo a small contemporary Trio village in the interior of Suriname The movements of the Amotopians are tracked and positioned in a century of Trio dynamics ultimately yielding a recent archaeology of Surinamese Trio movements for the Sipaliwini River basin 1907 2008 Alongside the construction of this archaeology novel mobility concepts are introduced They provide the conceptual footholds which enable the envisioning of mobility at various temporal scales from a decade up to a century the sequence of which has remained a blind spot in Caribbean and Amazonian archaeology West New Guinea Dylan Gaffney,Marlin Tolla,2025-02-20 This book explores the human past in West New Guinea otherwise known as Indonesian Papua West Papua or Irian Jaya The western part of New Guinea and its surrounding islands were critical for the early peopling of the Pacific region over 50 000 years ago when Homo sapiens moved out of Africa and into Asia seafaring through the islands of Wallacea as far as New Guinea the Bismarck Archipelago and the Solomon Islands After arriving on the shores of West New Guinea people adapted to diverse environments including coral reefs tropical rainforests swamps montane cloud forests and savannah grasslands Over millennia people transformed these habitats by burning and cutting the forests translocating plants and animals and managing access to resources Food production later emerged in the region as the global climate warmed up around 10 000 years ago Between 4000 3000 years ago the Austronesian languages began to enter West New Guinea with its speakers settling around the coasts and offshore islands New forms of exchange connected people and particularly within the last 2000 years drew West New Guinea into global networks The objects produced and traded at ethnographic contact like pottery stone axes string bags shell ornaments and wooden carvings can be informative about these networks but they are increasingly changing as people navigate and transform their material worlds in the present The examination of these objects in museums not only casts light on their makers traders and collectors but also highlights the ongoing connections that Papuans have with their material culture in the twenty first century The 22 chapters in this book contribute novel perspectives and critical data on each of these themes The authors come from archaeology social anthropology biological anthropology linguistics museology palaeoecology and beyond They write about a wide array of West New Guinea s regions including the highlands north and south coasts Bird s Head Peninsula Cenderawasih Bay and the Raja Ampat Islands Gender, Ritual and Social Formation in West Papua Jan Pouwer,2010-01-01 This study based on a lifelong involvement with New Guinea compares the culture of the Kamoro 18

000 people with that of their eastern neighbours the Asmat 40 000 both living on the south coast of West Papua Indonesia The comparison showing substantial differences as well as striking similarities contributes to a deeper understanding of both cultures Part I looks at Kamoro society and culture through the window of its ritual cycle framed by gender Part II widens the view offering in a comparative fashion a more detailed analysis of the socio political and cosmo mythological setting of the Kamoro and the Asmat rituals These are closely linked with their social formations matrilineally oriented for the Kamoro patrilineally for the Asmat Next is a systematic comparison of the rituals Kamoro culture revolves around cosmological connections ritual and play whereas the Asmat central focus is on warfare and headhunting Because of this difference in cultural orientation similar even identical ritual acts and myths differ in meaning The comparison includes a cross cultural structural analysis of relevant myths This publication is of interest to scholars and students in Oceanic studies and those drawn to the comparative study of cultures Oceania Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.),Eric Kjellgren,2007 Includes detailed chapters devoted to each of the five major cultural regions of the Pacific Australia Melanesia Micronesia Polynesia and the islands of Southeast Asia Kamoro Art Jan Pouwer,2003 This book celebrates the long neglected art of the Kamoro a people living along the southwest coast of Papua Traditional Kamoro culture was characterized by an almost uninterrupted series of feasts and ceremonies Some of these feasts are still celebrated today Woodcarvings made in a distinct style play an essential part in the proceedings For the first time a selection of major pieces from the collection of the Rijksmuseum voor Volkenkunde augmented by rare objects from other museums in The Netherlands has been brought together Many of the objects some collected as early as 1828 are unique Recently collected woodcarvings show the versatility of the Kamoro in continuing the tradition while adding innovation changes to their repertoire This book edited by Dirk Smidt includes a substantial essay by Jan Pouwer on major ceremonial feasts and contributions by other experts in the field including Todd Harple Karen Jacobs Methodius Mamapuku and Hein A van der Schoot New Guinea Art: One symphony from many voices: collectors, collecting activities, and the culture of collecting since 1870 ,2005 New Guinea Art John Friede,Gregory Hodgins,2005
