Gerontology Laura L. Carstensen, Barry A. Edelstein, 1987 Books in Series, 1985 Vols for 1980 issued in three parts
Series Authors and Titles Handbook of Clinical Behavior Therapy with Adults Alan S. Bellack, Michel

Hersen, 2012-12-06 Despite the occasional outcries to the contrary the field of behavior therapy is still growing and the asymptote has not been reached yet The umbrella of behavior therapy continues to enlarge and still is able to encompass new theories new concepts new research new data and new clinical techniques Although the number of new behavioral journals now has stabilized we still see a proliferation of books on the subject In the past few years however we have seen considerable specialization within behavior therapy No longer is it possible to be a generalist and remain fully abreast of all the relevant developments Thus we see behavior therapists who deal with adults those who deal with children those whose specialty is hospital psychiatry and those who see themselves as practitioners of behavioral medicine Even within a subarea such as behavioral medicine specialization runs supreme to the extent that there are experts in the specific addictions adult medical problems and child medical problems Given the extent of specialization there are numerous ways to skin the proverbial cat We therefore have chosen to look at the contemporary work in behavior therapy that is being carried out with adults in part of course because of our long standing interest in this area as teachers researchers and clinicians In so doing we have chosen to highlight the clinical aspects of the endeavor but not at the expense of the rich research heritage for each of the specific adult disorders Public Administration Series--Bibliography, 1987-10 Handbook of Clinical

Geropsychology Michel Hersen, Vincent B. Van Hasselt, 2013-11-22 Over the last two decades the number of persons over 65 has increased by 65% Handbook of Clinical Geropsychology focuses attention on how the contributions of clinical psychology address the problems faced by this enormous population In the first part chapters cover a historical perspective clinical geropsychology and U S federal policy psychodynamic issues and other key topics Part II details assessment and treatment for a wide range of disorders affecting the elderly Part III considers such special issues as family caregiving minority issues physical activity and elder abuse and neglect Annotated Bibliography of Books on Gerontology, Published 1980-1987

Rama K. Rao, 1987 Handbook of Clinical Psychology in Medical Settings Ronald H. Rozensky, Jerry J. Sweet, Steven M. Tavian, 2013-06-29 For two decades I have been responding to questions about the nature of health psychology and how it differs from medical psychology behavioral medicine and clinical psychology From the beginning I have taken the position that any application of psychological theory or practice to problems and issues of the health system is health psychology I have repeatedly used an analogy to Newell and Simon's General Problem Solver program of the late 1950s and early 1960s which had two major functional parts in addition to the executive component One was the problem solving core the procedural competence the other was the representation of the problem environment In the analogy the concepts knowledge and techniques of psychology constitute the core competence the health system in all its complexity is the problem environment A health psychologist is one whose basic competence in psychology is augmented by a working knowledge of some aspect of the health system Quite apparently there are functionally distinct aspects of health psychology to the degree that there are meaningful subdivisions in psychological competence and significantly different microenvironments within the health system I hesitate to refer to them as areas of specialization as the man who gave health psychology its formal definition Joseph Matarazzo has said that there are no specialties in psychology cited in the editors preface to this book
