This Report 2011 gives an overwhelming amount of comprehensive information for city managers trying to cope with the ever increasing competition between cities in attracting investments talent firms knowledge events etc Apart from an update of the ranking of 500 cities this new publication offers a lot of additional information such as a selection of the best examples of competitive cities The book is recommended for everybody interested in the strengths and weaknesses of the major cities in the world Leo van den Berg Erasmus University Rotterdam The Netherlands Ni Pengfei s GUCRs are distinctive for their methodology and the comprehensiveness of coverage In this edition Ni offers us three new insights In three chapters he analyses aspects of the competitiveness of five functional categories of cities as centers such as finance technology politics manufacturing and port logistics The determinants of the elements in his Global Urban Competitiveness Report give us an indication of the importance of each of the elements The Report also provides eleven examples of best city practices A must read book Peter Karl Kresl Bucknell University US The Global Urban Competitiveness Report 2011 is an empirical study of the competitiveness of 500 cities around the world This one of a kind annual resource draws on a wealth of data sources all of which are described and assessed Using a sophisticated methodology and a team of 100 researchers from the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences the book not only ranks these cities but also presents a treasury of information with regard to the strengths and weaknesses of each city in relation to each other The book includes a full discussion of the factors that create urban competitiveness and what sorts or categories of cities are most competitive and comments on the policies and initiatives that are adopted by the most competitive cities Scholars and researchers in the areas of urban economics planning geography and regional economics will find the information invaluable as will local authorities decision makers and economic planners in cities throughout the world New Architecture and Technology Gyula Sebestyen,Christopher

Pollington,2007-06-07 Many books have covered the topics of architecture materials and technology New Architecture and Technology is the first to explore the interrelation between these three subjects It illustrates the impact of modern technology and materials on architecture The book explores the technical progress of building showing how developments both past and present are influenced by design methods It provides a survey of contemporary architecture as affected by construction technology It also explores aspects of building technology within the context of general industrial social and economic developments The reader will acquire a vocabulary covering the entire range of structure types and learn a new approach to understanding the development of design Delivery by Design Zachary Spicer,2022-08-03

Municipalities in Canada have an array of servicing options available to them when producing or delivering local services such as water public transit and waste collection including in house provision or privatization However services may also be contracted or jointly delivered with neighbouring municipalities a practice some local governments are increasingly gravitating towards Delivery by Design sheds light on this practice in Canadian local government by examining three crucial questions Why do municipalities cooperate What is being shared or contracted with other governments And what leads to successful or unsuccessful relationships between municipalities The book finds that Canadian municipalities are cooperating fairly regularly but are doing so in a small number of policy areas mainly emergency and administrative services Zachary Spicer examines these types of relationships explaining how they will be crucial in the future as local services are increasingly shared or jointly delivered by municipal governments Relying on extensive data and document collection surveys and a series of primary interviews with local decision makers Delivery by Design explores the nature of interlocal collaboration in Canada mapping out a relatively understudied process in local governance Selling Places Stephen Ward,2005-10-09 This highly illustrated book describes how places have been sold or promoted to make themselves attractive locations as holiday resorts business centres or residential areas Explains the history of current practice using world wide examples Dialogues in Urban and Regional Planning Thomas L.
