Netherlandish Antiquity Marisa Bass, 2016-03-29 This is the first in depth historical study of Jan Gossart ca 1478 1532 one of the most important painters of the Renaissance in northern Europe Providing a richly illustrated narrative of the Netherlandish artist s life and art Marisa Anne Bass shows how Gossart s paintings were part of a larger cultural effort in the Netherlands to assert the region s ancient heritage as distinct from the antiquity and presumed cultural hegemony of Rome Focusing on Gossart s vibrant monumental mythological nudes the book challenges previous interpretations by arguing that Gossart and his patrons did not slavishly imitate Italian Renaissance models but instead sought to contest the idea that the Roman past gave the Italians a monopoly on antiquity Drawing on many previously unused primary sources in Latin Dutch and French Jan Gossart and the Invention of Netherlandish Antiquity offers a fascinating new understanding of both the painter and the history of northern European art at large The Van Doetecum Family: The Antwerp years, 1554-1575

Meganck, 2017-06-12 This book is also available in Paperback Erudite Eyes explores the network of the Antwerp cartographer Abraham Ortelius 1527 1598 a veritable trading zone of art and erudition Populated by such luminaries as Pieter Bruegel Joris Hoefnagel Justus Lipsius and Benedictus Arias Montanus among others this vibrant antiquarian culture yielded new knowledge about local antiquities and distant civilizations and offered a framework for articulating art and artistic practice These fruitful exchanges undertaken in a spirit of friendship and collaboration are all the more astonishing when seen against the backdrop of the ongoing wars Based on a close reading of early modern letters alba amicorum printed books manuscripts and artworks this book situates Netherlandish art and culture between Bruegel and Rubens in a European perspective Pieter Bruegel's Historical Imagination Stephanie Porras, 2018-04-26 The question of how to understand

Bruegel's art has cast the artist in various guises as a moralizing satirist, comedic humanist, celebrator of vernacular traditions, and proto ethnographer. Stephanie Porras reorients these apparently contradictory accounts, arguing that the debate about how to read Bruegel has obscured his pictures' complex relation to time and history. Rather than viewing Bruegel's art as simply illustrating the social realities of his day, Porras asserts that Bruegel was an artist deeply concerned with the past. In playing with the boundaries of the familiar and the foreign, history and the present, Bruegel's images engaged with the fraught question of Netherlandish history in the years just prior to the Dutch Revolt, when imperial, religious, and national identities were increasingly drawn into tension. His pictorial style and his manipulation of traditional iconographies reveal the complex relations unique to this moment among classical antiquity, local history, and art history. An important reassessment of Renaissance attitudes toward history and of Renaissance humanism in the Low Countries, this volume traces the emergence of archaeological and anthropological practices in historical thinking, their intersections with artistic production, and the developing concept of local art history.

Bruc ealles well Marc Lodewijckx, 2004 The essays in this book are about the peoples of North West Europe in the first millennium AD. They were written by archaeologists from various countries who either reveal the results of their archaeological fieldwork or place the knowledge they have of their particular region in a wider supraregional context. It is commonly known that archaeologists prefer to devote their time to fieldwork. Considering the limited number of archaeologists and the multitude of opportunities for fieldwork, this preference is quite understandable, if not even obvious. In addition to this, essay writing is a cumbersome and exhausting activity. The warm and enthusiastic response to our request for contributions made it possible to compose an interesting volume. We hope that this publication may encourage many others to remain active in the field of archaeology and that the cooperation among colleagues stimulated by this project may be continued in the future.

Rodanum Guus Besuijen, 2008 Beneath the surface of Aardenburg, a small town in the south western part of the Netherlands, lie the remains of a Roman settlement that is presumed to have been named Rodanum. Extensive archaeological excavations from the late 1950s to the late 1980s revealed that the settlement was similar in size or even larger than the modern town. Its centre was formed by a large castellum type fortification wall that enclosed several large stone buildings. The settlement was connected to the sea by a natural watercourse that defined its economic and logistical importance in the region. Rodanum's military function was to secure the regional coast against attacks by Germanic tribes via the North Sea, which occurred around AD 175. It continued to be inhabited until the late third century or the beginning of the fourth century, after which the settlement was deserted until the early Middle Ages. The first part of this study provides an overview of Aardenburg during the Roman period, in which its economic and military functions within the region are explored. In particular, the military and civilian character of the town is discussed. The second part contains a study of the metal objects and aims to present significant additional information. This part concludes with a critical review of the
